Abstract This research study and the accompanying articles examine how the use of technology in the classroom can be used to enhance student learning and to provide a more personalized learning experience. The research is based on a review of the literature and a series of interviews with educators. The findings suggest that technology can be used to enhance student learning in a number of ways, including providing personalized learning experiences, increasing student engagement, and providing access to a wide range of resources. The research also suggests that technology can be used to provide a more personalized learning experience by allowing students to learn at their own pace and to receive personalized feedback. The research also suggests that technology can be used to increase student engagement by providing interactive learning experiences and by allowing students to collaborate with each other. Finally, the research suggests that technology can be used to provide access to a wide range of resources, including textbooks, articles, and videos. The research also suggests that technology can be used to provide a more personalized learning experience by allowing students to learn at their own pace and to receive personalized feedback.
