Handbook of the Politics of the Arctic Leif Christian Jensen, Geir Hønneland, 2015-09-25 The Arctic has again become one of the leading issues on the international foreign policy agenda in a manner unseen since the Cold War Drawing on the perspectives of geo politics and international law this Handbook offers fresh insights and perspectives on the most pressing issues grouped under the headings of political ascendancy climate and environmental issues resources and energy and the response and policies of affected countries

What We Think About When We Try Not To Think About Global Warming Per Espen Stoknes, 2015 Today about 98 percent of scientists affirm that climate change is human made and about 2 percent still question it Despite that overwhelming majority though about half the population of rich countries like ours choose to believe the 2 percent And paradoxically this large camp of deniers grows even larger as more and more alarming proof of climate change has cropped up over the last decades This disconnect has both climate scientists and activists scratching their heads growing anxious and responding usually by repeating more facts to win the argument But the more climate facts pile up the greater the resistance to them grows and the harder it becomes to enact measures to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and prepare communities for the inevitable change ahead Is humanity up to the task It is a catch 22 that starts says psychologist and climate expert Per Espen Stoknes from an inadequate understanding of the way most humans think act and live in the world around them With dozens of examples he shows how to retell the story of climate change and apply communication strategies more fit for the task Publisher's description
