QUESTION 10

Which of the following is a correct statement?

☐ A. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its sales.

☐ B. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its fixed costs.

☐ C. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its variable costs.

☐ D. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its total costs.

ANSWER: B

Operating leverage is the ratio of a company's operating income to its fixed costs. It is a measure of the degree to which a company's operating income is affected by changes in its sales. Operating leverage is calculated as follows:

$$\text{Operating Leverage} = \frac{\text{Operating Income}}{\text{Fixed Costs}}$$

Operating leverage is a key indicator of a company's risk. A high operating leverage indicates that a company's operating income is highly sensitive to changes in its sales, which increases its risk. A low operating leverage indicates that a company's operating income is less sensitive to changes in its sales, which decreases its risk.
