Communication Skills for Surgeons Benjamin Patel, Abhay Rane, 2022-09-28 Historically, communication was described as a secondary or soft skill for surgeons. Now, astute communication, both with patients and with colleagues, forms a fundamental element of holistic surgical practice and comprises a core component of the Non-Technical Skills for Surgeons that are increasingly recognised in modern surgical practice. Good communication is required during each patient interaction: history taking, explanation, consent, breaking bad news, and managing difficult encounters such as the demanding or angry patient. Good communication with patients improves patient trust, compliance, and overall satisfaction, reduces complaints and malpractice claims. High quality communication is also fundamental when interacting with colleagues in theatre on the ward whilst making referrals and organising special tests In the busy schedules of medical professionals such communication must be succinct and relevant Team structures must empower all members to speak up so as to prevent harm being done Suboptimal communication is a root cause for the majority of serious adverse events Furthermore good communication reduces job stress and enhances satisfaction for the surgeon Good communication is not an inborn behaviour it is a learned skill that is based on key principles Studies have clearly demonstrated that education in communication improves patient outcomes and satisfaction Several frameworks have been described to facilitate good communication in certain scenarios SPIKES for breaking bad news SBAR for handover surgical briefs and de briefs to name a few This textbook will be aimed towards medical students surgical trainees and surgical consultants internationally It is relevant to every day practice examinations and OSCEs such as medical finals MRCS FRCS and international equivalents and interviews where role play is often featured
