Author: Nekisa Mahzad

I have been a student at California State University Channel Islands (CI) for 5 semesters, and over the course of my stay I have grown and learned more than I thought possible. I came to this school from Moorpark Community College already knowing that I wanted to be an English teacher; I had taken numerous English courses and though I knew exactly what I was headed for—was I ever wrong. Going through the English program has taught me so much more than stuff about literature and language, it has taught me how to be me. I have learned here how to write and express myself, how to think for myself, and how to find the answers to the things that I don't know. Most importantly I have learned how important literature and language are.

When I started at CI, I thought I was going to spend the next 3 years reading classics, discussing them and then writing about them. That was what I did in community college English courses, so I didn't think it would be much different here. On the surface, to an outsider, I am sure that this is what it appears that C.I. English majors do. In most all my classes I did read, discuss, and write papers; however, I quickly found out that that there was so much more to it. One specific experience I had while at C.I. really shows how integrated this learning is. Instead of writing a paper for my final project in Perspectives of Multicultural Literature (ENGL 449), I decided with a friend to venture to an Indian reservation and compare it to a book we read by Sherman Alexie. We had a great time and we learned so much more that we ever could have done from writing a paper. The opportunity to do that showed me that there are so many ways that one can learn that are both fun and educational.

The English courses also taught me how powerful the written word and language can be. Words tell so much more than a story. Stories tell about life and the human condition, they bring up the past and people and cultures that are long gone. Literature teaches about the self and the world surrounding the self. From these classes I learned about the world, its people and its history; through literature I learned how we as humans are all related. By writing about what we learn and/or what we believe, we are learning how to express ourselves.

I know that my ability to write and express my ideas, thoughts and knowledge has grown stronger each semester. I have always struggled to put my thoughts on paper in a manner that is coherent and correct according to assignments. I can remember being told numerous times in community college to "organize your

Beyond the Traditional Essay: Increasing Student Agency in a Diverse Classroom with Nondisposable Assignments Melissa Ryan, Kerry Kautzman, 2022-07-12 This volume offers a range of responses to the problem of disposable assignments essays written just for a grade and then thrown away The scholars collected here explore how renewable assignments can contribute to public knowledge eliciting student work that is shared across networks of learning that does something that transcends the teacher's grade. Although there is significant interest in such innovative teaching practices, particularly in this year of pedagogical experimentation, there are few resources for teachers that collect in one place both scholarly context and practical advice for implementing renewable assignments in the classroom. The essays in this volume range widely from demonstrating how digital tools engage and empower reluctant learners to raising theoretical questions around intellectual property to measuring the success of renewable assignments through outcomes assessment.

This edition is fully updated and revised.

Perspectives on Language Assessment Literacy Sahbi Hidri, 2020-06-08 Perspectives on Language Assessment Literacy describes how the elements of language assessment literacy can help teachers gather information about when and how to assess learners and about using the appropriate assessment tools to interpret results in a fair way. It provides highlights from past and current research, descriptions of assessment processes that enhance LAL case studies from classrooms, and suggestions for professional dialogue and collaboration. This book will help to foster continuous learning, empower learners and teachers, and make them more confident in their assessment tasks and reassure decision makers that what is going on in assessment meets international benchmarks and standards. It addresses issues like concepts and challenges of assessment, the impacts of reflective feedback on assessment, the ontogenetic nature of assessment literacy, the reliability of classroom-based assessment, and interfaces between teaching and assessment. It fills this gap in the literature by addressing the current status and future challenges of language assessment literacy. This book will be of great interest for academics, researchers, and postgraduate students in the fields of language assessment literacy and English language teaching.

Skills for Business and Management Martin Sedgley, 2020-04-15 This book provides practical guidance and strategies to help students make a successful transition to university and unlock their academic potential. Chapters are organised around five essential skills for success: time management, academic reading, academic writing, and group work, all of which are underpinned by independent learning. Students will learn how to demonstrate critical analysis in their writing, overcome challenges in group projects, and deliver presentations with confidence and focus. In bringing together academic and employability skills, readers are encouraged to make connections between the skills they have developed inside and outside the classroom and to start the process of personal development planning sooner rather than later. Packed with activities, pause for thought, reflective tasks, student insights and model assignments Skills for Business and Management is an essential resource for undergraduates and postgraduates on any business and management course It is also ideal for those studying relating fields such as accounting finance human resource management hospitality marketing and tourism management Simplify Your Study Peter Lia,2020-02-12 This innovative book provides clear and straight forward strategies which help students to understand the conventions of academic assignments and what lecturers expect from their work Simplify Your Study is organised around nine core units which focus on the sticking points of university study including organisation and planning reading and note making strategies producing essays critical thinking delivering presentations and preparing for exams Packed with tried and tested strategies for success this essential resource will help students of all disciplines and levels to achieve their academic potential An A-Z of Social Work Skills Michaela Rogers,Dan Allen,2021-09-08 Puzzled by terminology skills law or theory Revising for your placement or exam Then look no further This series of concise and easy to use A Zs will be your guide Designed for both students and newly qualified social workers this book will introduce you to over 60 key skills in a concise and no nonsense way You can test your knowledge and how to apply each skill in practice with Skills in Action Stop Reflect and Top Tips boxes Transitions in Writing ,2018-03-12 Transitions in Writing addresses the experiences of writers as they move between contexts of writing and juggle new and different demands Spelman Miller and Stevenson bring together research by scholars in a range of settings across the world who approach transition from different standpoints Transition is often conceived of as a change in setting coinciding with physical or temporal relocation such as between stages of an educational or professional career However writers also manage more local micro level transitions as they move between genres registers and rhetorical moves to meet the demands of the task The combination of both macro and micro level perspectives on transition offers a novel broad conception of the types of change a writer encounters and illustrates a range of methodological approaches appropriate to exploring such transitions Assessing Writing to Support Learning Sandra Murphy,Peggy O'Neill,2022-11-08 In this book authors Murphy and O'Neill propose a new way forward moving away from high stakes test based writing assessment and the curriculum it generates and toward an approach to assessment that centers on student learning and success Reviewing the landscape of writing assessment and existing research based theories on writing the authors demonstrate how a test based approach to accountability and current practices have undermined effective teaching and learning of writing This book bridges the gap between real world writing that takes place in schools college and careers and the writing that students are asked to do in standardized writing assessments to offer a new ecological approach to writing assessment Murphy and O'Neill's new way forward turns accountability inside out to help teachers understand the role of formative assessments and assessment as inquiry It also brings the outside in by bridging the gap between authentic writing and writing assessment Through these two strands readers learn how assessment systems can be restructured to become better aligned with contemporary understandings of writing and with best practices in teaching

With examples of assessments from elementary school through college chapters include guidance on designing assessments to address multiple kinds of writing integrate reading with writing and incorporate digital technology and multimodality Emphasizing the central role that teachers play in systemic reform the authors offer sample assessments developed with intensive teacher involvement that support learning and provide information for the evaluation of programs and schools This book is an essential resource for graduate students instructors scholars and policymakers in writing assessment composition and English education
