Predator-Prey Dynamics Michael R. Conover,2007-03-30 Humans being visually oriented are well versed in camouflage and how animals hide from predators that use vision to locate prey However many predators do not hunt by sight they hunt by scent This raises the question do survival mechanisms and behaviors exist which allow animals to hide from these olfactory predators If so what are they and how do they work Predator Prey Dynamics The Role of Olfaction examines environmental as well as biological and behavioral elements of both predators and prey to answer gaps in our current knowledge of the survival dynamics of species Beginning with a thorough look at the mechanics of olfaction the author explains how predators detect locate and track their prey using odor trails on the ground or odor plumes in the air Understanding the physics of airflow is the next step to understanding the potential for manipulating and masking scent While a bush may conceal an animal visually from a predator it will not protect an animal from a predator using olfaction To hide from the latter an animal needs to hide in locations where turbulence and updrafts will disperse its scent The book addresses tradeoffs that animals must make given their dual needs to hide from predators and to procure food and water Studies of mammalian and avian behavior provide examples on the actual use and efficacy of olfactory camouflage tactics The book concludes with a redefinition of ecological terms based on the physics of airflow and a summary of the theory and implications of olfactory predator prey dynamics Introducing the mechanics of olfaction and its influence on the behavior of both predators and prey Predator Prey Dynamics The Role of Olfaction presents a new perception of the world and enables us to understand and more effectively manage the delicate survival dynamics of animals in the wild Willamette National Forest (N.F.), Land and Resource(s) Management Plan (LRMP) ,1990
