2nd Ed Missouri Group, 2010-10-27 News Talk Colleen Cotter, 2010-02-11 Written by a former news reporter and editor, News Talk gives us an insider's view of the media showing how journalists select and construct their news stories. Colleen Cotter goes behind the scenes revealing how language is chosen and shaped by news staff into the stories we read and hear. Tracing news stories from start to finish, she shows how the actions of journalists and editors and the limitations of news writing formulas may distort a story that was prepared with the most determined effort to be fair and accurate. Using insights from both linguistics and journalism, News Talk is a remarkable picture of a hidden world and its working practices on both sides of the Atlantic. It will interest those involved in language study, media and communication studies and those who want to understand how media shape our language and our view of the world. The Routledge Companion to American

Journalism History Melita M. Garza, Michael Fuhlhage, Tracy Lucht, 2023-09-20 The Routledge Companion to American Journalism History revisits media history across forms, formats and multiple fault lines including gender, ethnicity, race and citizenship status. Original contributions highlight areas of journalism history in desperate need of further treatment with a special focus on diversity, equity and accountability. Sections cover the early origins and development of journalism in the United States, pivotal moments and personalities in various strands of journalism, underrepresented groups and formats in journalism history and key issues in doing journalism history. Authors aim to fill in the gaps left by traditional historical narratives by examining overlooked subjects such as labor reporting and overdue theoretical perspectives such as intersectionality. Collectively, the voices in this book offer a more inclusive paradigm for the field. Written by a range of recognized journalism scholars, both well established and emerging, this collection offers a thought provoking starting point for researchers and advanced students seeking a critical understanding of American journalism history as conceived in the current era.

Becoming the News

Ruth Palmer,2017-12-05 What does it feel like to be featured quoted or just named in a news story A refugee family the survivor of a shooting a primary voter in Iowa the views and experiences of ordinary people are an important component of journalism While much has been written about how journalists work and gather stories what do we discover about the practice of journalism and attitudes about the media by focusing on the experiences of the subjects themselves In Becoming the News

Ruth Palmer argues that understanding the motivations and experiences of those who have been featured in news stories voluntarily or not sheds new light on the practice of journalism and the importance many continue to place on the role of the mainstream media. Based on dozens of interviews with news subjects, Becoming the News studies how ordinary people make sense of their experience as media subjects. Palmer charts the arc of the experience of making the news from the events that brought an ordinary person to journalists' attention through the decision to cooperate with reporters, interactions with journalists, and reactions to the news coverage and its aftermath. She explores what motivates someone to talk to the press, whether they consider the potential risks, the power dynamics between a journalist and their subject, their expectations about the motivations of journalists, and the influence of social media on their decisions and reception. Pointing to the ways traditional news organizations both continue to hold on to and are losing their authority, Becoming the News has important implications for how we think about the production and consumption of news at a time when Americans distrust the news media more than ever.
