1. Where does this scene take place?

This scene takes place in Duke's council chamber.

2. What is the Duke's perspective of the situation? Why does he respect Othello?

Duke's perspective of the situation is good and positive. In the beginning, he was defending Brabantio and hating Othello, saying how bad he is. However, after he listens to Othello's speech, he is convinced that he is a very intelligent and charming man that he would allow his own daughter to marry him. He saw his intentions and knew his true mind. Duke holds Othello's esteem because of how he's a military servant

Her family provides life and education for her, the lesson of respecting others. However, she compares how her mother prefers her father before her own family, so she tells them that she is going to do the same thing as her mother did to her father. She also explains how now, her husband is her lord and she has to follow him and his plans.

4. What does the Duke mean when he says, "Your son-in-law is far more fair than black"?

The duke is saying that Othello is a very good and a beautiful man that his virtue of beauty is far more than the skin colour black since in that time, the lighter the skin colour is, the wealthier a person is because they stay indoors and not work at farms and outdoors.
