Logic and Time K. Michalski, 2001-11-30 The subject of this study is Husserl's theory of meaning as it appears in his writings from the Logical Investigations to the Crisis of the European Sciences The first chapter focuses on Husserl's critique of psychologism and the theory of meaning that stems from it The second chapter takes its departure from the question of Husserl's attitude towards the Cartesian tradition then presents the transcendental noematic theory of meaning represented by The Idea of Phenomenology Ideas and Cartesian Meditations The third chapter deals with Husserl's interpretation of time consciousness against the background of the development of the problem of time in modern philosophy Husserl often changed his views regarding the question of meaning I have tried to understand the reasons for these changes To do this I have occasionally disturbed the chronological order of his arguments in favour of a consideration of their logical development and coherence Throughout this study but especially in the digression on consciousness and speech and the Postscript I have also attempted to bring to the fore a tension in Husserl's thought between two interpretive strategies the first I call Cartesian the other non Cartesian or hermeneutical

Reception of Darwinism in the Iberian World T.F Glick, Miguel Angel Puig-Samper, R. Ruiz, 2001-10-31 I Twenty five years ago at the Conference on the Comparative Reception of Darwinism held at the University of Texas in 1972 only two countries of the Iberian world Spain and Mexico were represented At the time it was apparent that the topic had attracted interest only as regarded the mainstream science countries of Western Europe plus the United States The Eurocentric bias of professional history of science was a fact The sea change that subsequently occurred in the historiography of science makes 1972 appear something like the antediluvian era Still we would like to think that that meeting was prescient in looking beyond the mainstream science countries as then perceived in order to test the variation that ideas undergo as they pass from center to periphery One thing that the comparative study of the reception of ideas makes abundantly clear however is the weakness of the center periphery dichotomy from the perspective of the diffusion of scientific ideas Catholics in mainstream countries for example did not handle evolution much better than did their coreligionaries on the fringes Conversely Darwinians in Latin America were frequently better placed to advance Darwin's ideas in a social and political sense than were their fellow evolutionists on the Continent The Texas meeting was also a marker in the comparative reception of scientific ideas Darwinism aside Although by 1972 scientific institutions had been studied comparatively there was no antecedent for the comparative history of scientific ideas Resources in Education, 1997 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1982 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965-70
