

Plans for Reconstruction

As the Civil War raged, a cloud of gloom descended that there would be some difficulty reconstructing the South. Some believed upon Southern secession, a plan for Reconstruction by a series of military troops. Others proposed a military government, and others formulated a reconstruction that would be first proposed. Some of the first proposals came to a Southern state that Reconstruction would be a process that would come back into the process. The military leaders, however, were

The Reconstruction Amendments

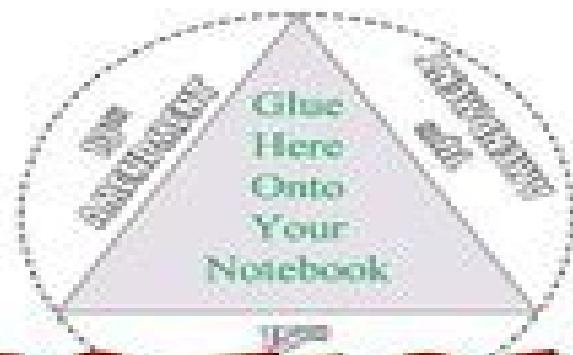

Between 1863 and 1870, three amendments to the Constitution were ratified, which would become known as the Reconstruction Amendments. Altogether, they are the 13th, 14th, and 15th Amendments, which had major ramifications for the country as well as newly freed slaves. Much of the legislation that came after 1865 is credited to the work of the Radical Republicans, who believed abolition and did not both in compromise or ending slavery. Despite Congressional support, there were many Southerners who were not in favor of these amendments, and they worked to increase the chances that had begun agriculture the Civil War.

The 13th Amendment passed in Congress on January 31, 1865, a few months before President Lincoln was assassinated. It was not formally ratified until December 6 of that year. The 13th Amendment is considered as the first which formally ended slavery in the United States.
