

Note to Parents

Dear Parents,

Happy new school year! I am so excited to be your child's teacher for their 1st grade year! I have been teaching 1st grade for 18 years and I feel truly lucky to do a job I am passionate about. To be most effective I am writing to ask you to become a partner with me in your child's education. I will only have your child for a short time so I want to make a contribution that will last a lifetime.

I know my teaching must begin with making children feel at home in the classroom and helping all the children come together into a learning community. This community is made up of unique individuals, each with his or her own learning style, strengths, interests, history, hopes, and dreams.

Would you please help me by taking a moment to write about your child: What is your child like? What are his or her interests? What are things you, as a parent, know that would be important for me to know? What has his or her school experiences been like so far? How do you see your child as a learner and as a person? What are your main goals for your child this year? Please use the attached envelope and kindly send in your response by Friday, July 12th.

Thank you for your cooperation. I look forward to a wonderful partnership in your child's education.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Winter

Working With Challenging Parents of Students With Special Needs Jean Cheng Gorman, 2004-03-12 This practical guide will help avert obstacles and clear the way for a healthy and productive working relationship that will benefit the individuals who are at the center of the enterprise: the children. Lawrence Balter, Professor, New York University. This book should be used by every teacher. School districts should be providing professional development classes and higher education should be addressing the challenging components of teaching that Gorman addresses. Mary Ellen Somers, Teacher, Kingsley Junior High School, Normal, IL. Intimidated by an angry parent. Frustrated by a non supportive parent. Hands on specific solutions are now available to help you. Most teaching programs do not cover how to handle difficult parents, especially parents of children with special needs. This book fills that gap, focusing both on dealing with specific problems and cultivating strong relationships with parents. In specific settings such as IEP meetings and transitional plan meetings, you will learn how to understand the parents perspective while arming yourself with methods to address their concerns and move beyond conflict to true collaboration. The book's contents, grounded in research as well as real life experiences, include chapters to help you generate alliances, not lawsuits, and examine such concepts as empathy, communication and risk management. Deal with specific problems such as parents who are angry, non participatory or plaintive. Work with groups with unique concerns such as grandparents, foster parents, noncustodial parents and homeless families. Cultivate and maintain good collaborative relationships with parents. The easy to use layout first presents research and discusses the reasons behind particular problems, followed by clear main strategies to solving the problems and actions to avoid. A summary and questions at the end of each chapter as well as the included extensive forms let you examine your specific professional situation.
