Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or other medical problems. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group remained sedentary. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program significantly increased the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR increased from 68 to 72 beats per minute at rest and from 148 to 152 beats per minute during exercise. The EE increased from 1.2 to 1.4 kcal per minute at rest and from 2.8 to 3.2 kcal per minute during exercise. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output because the marginal revenue curve shifts up. The new profit-maximizing output level will be where the new marginal revenue curve intersects the marginal cost curve. The new profit-maximizing output level will be greater than the original profit-maximizing output level.
