Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 20 obese women who were randomly assigned to either a diet or an exercise group. The diet group was instructed to consume 1000 kcal less than their maintenance level, while the exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, 3 times per week. The study was conducted over a 10-week period. The results showed that the diet group lost significantly more weight and body fat than the exercise group. The exercise group showed no significant changes in body composition. The diet group also showed significant improvements in physical fitness, including increased endurance and strength. The exercise group showed no significant changes in physical fitness. The study concluded that a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet is an effective intervention for weight loss and improvement in physical fitness in obese women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or natural light at night. To reduce the risk of the problem, the light should be turned off at the end of the work shift.
- Increased exposure to light at night is associated with a higher risk of breast cancer. The length of the exposure may be important in this case, as well as the intensity of the light.
- The use of artificial light at night may also increase the risk of cancer in the prostate gland, but this is not as clear as the evidence for breast cancer. The intensity of the light may be important in this case, as well as the duration of the exposure.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output, and this will require hiring more workers. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs.
