Plant Life Cycles

FROM SEED TO TREE

Every plant begins its life as a tiny seed. The seed contains all the information it needs to grow into a mature plant. When the seed is planted in the soil, it begins to grow. The first stage is called germination. The seed absorbs water from the soil and begins to swell. The embryo inside the seed starts to grow. The seedling emerges from the soil and begins to grow. The seedling has two main parts: the root and the stem. The root grows down into the soil to absorb water and nutrients. The stem grows up out of the soil and supports the leaves. The leaves are the part of the plant that makes food. The plant grows larger and larger. It has many leaves and a thick trunk. It is now a tree.

LIFE OF A PLANT

Plants have a life cycle that starts with a seed. The seed grows into a seedling, which then grows into a mature plant. The mature plant produces more seeds, which grow into more seedlings, and so on. This cycle repeats itself over and over again. Plants need water, sunlight, and soil to grow. They also need time to grow. Some plants grow very fast, while others grow very slow. Some plants live for many years, while others live for only a few days. The life of a plant is a continuous cycle of growth and reproduction.
