The Study of Spanish and Portuguese Literature Friedrich Bouterwek, 2021-05-07 This 2 volume book on the literature of Spain and Portugal represents an extraction from Bouterwek's most significant critical work entitled Geschichte der Poesie und Beredsamkeit seit dem Ende der dreizehnten Jahrhunderts History of Poetry and Eloquence from the Close of the Thirteenth Century in which the author has taken an historical and critical survey of the literature of the principal nations of Europe The first of the following volumes is devoted to the history of Spanish and the second to the history of Portuguese Literature The subdivisions of the work correspond with periods marked out by certain revolutions in taste produced by the rise of eminent writers or by other influential circumstances These epochs in literary cultivation form convenient resting places for the student and contribute to exhibit in a clear point of view the circumstances by which the advancement of polite learning has been accelerated or retarded The specimens which are numerous and a great portion of which are selected from very scarce works cannot fail to prove highly acceptable to the lovers of the literature of Spain and Portugal For a general and comprehensive knowledge of that literature they will be found amply sufficient and to those who wish to pursue its study more in detail they will afford most useful assistance In such a course of study great advantage may also be derived from the numerous bibliographical notes introduced by the author

A New Portuguese Grammar ... Second edition Antonio VIEYRA (Regius Professor of Spanish in the University of Dublin.), 1777

The Portuguese Nun Anna Klobucka, 2000 This study describes and analyzes cultural and literary mythology surrounding the figure of the seventeenth century nun Mariana Alcoforado as the presumed author of the celebrated collection of love letters that originally appeared in 1669 in French under the title of Lettres portugaises known in their many English editions as Portuguese Letters or Letters of a Portuguese Nun Ostensibly written by a nun cloistered in a provincial Portuguese convent to her departed lover an officer in the French army they are nowadays generally reputed to have been a literary fake authored by a seventeenth century French writer The Portuguese Nun describes the foundation and development of the myth of Soror Mariana and illuminates its continuing investment in the fabrication by the country's cultural elite of a shared national imagination. It examines the process of national reappropriation of the text from the Romantic period until its latest postmodern manifestations exemplified most remarkably by the feminist manifesto Novas Cartas Portuguesas (New Portuguese Letters). From its first retranslations into Portuguese in the early nineteenth century, this slim collection of five love letters has retained its status of a somewhat improbable textual support for one of Portugal's most persistently cultivated cultural fictions.

Genres of Transition: Literature and Economy in Portuguese-Speaking Southern Africa Thomas Waller, 2024-07-22. This book argues that literary production in Portuguese-speaking southern Africa has developed distinctive aesthetic idioms that critically respond to crises of global capitalism and related failures of post-colonial governance. Drawing from recent research at the intersection of world systems analysis and materialist theories of world literature, it identifies and evaluates two generic trends in the post-independence literatures of Mozambique and Angola. From the mid-1980s to the early 1990s, there is a marked tendency in Mozambican literary production towards fictional representations of ghosts, spectral effects, and gothic narrative techniques. In Angola, there is an analogous outburst of literary expression from the mid-1990s onwards, in which writers increasingly turn towards dystopian images of apocalypse, ecological crisis, and the disintegration of existing modes of social reproduction. Away from a restricted focus on the decline of the post-independence Marxist-Leninist state, the book contends that the upswing in these two genres of writing functions to critically register a world systemic horizon that both surpasses and includes locally determined national realities. The patterned repetition of spectral and dystopian forms in Portuguese-speaking southern Africa occurred at a time of heightened capitalisation in which the region was subjected to newly expropriative forms of accumulation and ecological enclosure via integration into a reconstellated world system headed by neoliberal finance capital. Through close readings of texts by authors such as Mia Couto, Suleiman Cassamo, Ungulani Ba Ka Khosa, Pepetela, and Ondjaki, this book asks: What factors drove literary production towards the figure of the spectre in Mozambique and towards dystopia in Angola? What emerging energies and social contradictions found shape in these generic idioms in ways that existing vocabularies were unable to express? What does the geo-temporal passage from spectrality to dystopia tell us about the history of capitalist development in southern Africa and about the restructuring of political-economic parameters across the globe?

Book for the Hour of Recreation María de San José, 2002-10. Mar a de San Jos Salazar 1548-1603 took the veil as a Discalced barefoot Carmelite nun in 1571, becoming one of Teresa of Avila's most important collaborators in religious reform and serving as prioress of the Seville and Lisbon convents. Within the parameters of the strict Catholic Reformation in Spain, Mar a fiercely defended women's rights to define their own spiritual experience and to teach, inspire, and lead other women in reforming their church. Mar a wrote this book as a defense of the Discalced practice of setting aside two hours each day for conversation, music, and staging of religious plays. Casting the book in the form of a dialogue, Mar a demonstrates through fictional conversations among a group of nuns during their hours of recreation how women could serve as very effective spiritual teachers for each other The book includes one of the first biographical portraits of Teresa and Maria's personal account of the troubled founding of the Discalced convent at Seville as well as her tribulations as an Inquisitional suspect Rich in allusions to women's affective relationships in the early modern convent Book for the Hour of Recreation also serves as an example of how a woman might write when relatively free of clerical censorship and expectations A detailed introduction and notes by Alison Weber provide historical and biographical context for Amanda Powell's fluid translation

Formal Approaches to Languages of South America Cilene Rodrigues, Andrés Saab, 2023-05-15 This book analyzes the linguistic diversity of South America based on approaches deeply rooted in the tradition of formal grammar The chapters brought together in this contributed volume consider native languages all kinds of languages used in the region including sign languages indigenous languages and the romance languages Portuguese and Spanish originally introduced by European colonizers which underwent processes of transformation giving rise to new local grammars One fourth of the language families of the world are located in South America but the majority of languages in the region are still understudied and out of the radar of theoretical linguistics mostly because their grammars are not well known by international researchers This book aims to fill this gap by bringing together studies rooted in the formal grammar approach first developed by Noam Chomsky which sees language not only as mere corpora attested in oral and written production but also as expressions of systems of thought and language production which are essential parts of human cognition The book is divided in three parts sign languages romance languages and indigenous languages and brings together studies of the following South American languages Brazilian Sign Language Libras Língua Brasileira de Sinais Argentinian Sign Language LSA Lengua de Señas Argentina Peruvian Sign Language LSP Lengua de Señas Peruana Brazilian Portuguese Chilean and Argentinian Spanish Quechua Paraguayan Guarani Aingae Macro J languages Formal Approaches to the Languages of South America will be an invaluable resource both for theoretical linguists and cognitive scientists by providing access to top quality research on understudied languages and enabling these languages to be incorporated into comparative studies that can contribute to advance the knowledge of general principles governing all human languages
