Solution Manual

While completely devoted to the other stated aims, explicit management for change shall be limited to the quality requirements. It has also to be noted that the limited management for other objectives is not usually perceived as less quality management, a reduction because of a more comprehensive view on quality.

This assessment that water, particularly in southern oil fields, poses the greatest oil field water issue was discussed during a meeting for the Western and Gulfcoast oil geologists on water treatment issues that will focus on the subject over the next several days. The topic is expected to be discussed and debated after groundwater contamination situations occurred in similar petroleum basins, as the industry sought to learn just exactly how serious the situation for petroleum and water basins throughout the independent sector would be. The meeting was held at the University of Texas at Austin, Texas, and was held in a large hall.
