Paper 1 Example (3 SAQs & 1 ERQ)

Answer all questions in this section. Marks will be awarded for focused answers supported by relevant knowledge and study.

1. Describe neuroplasticity, with reference to one study. [9 marks]

Neuroplasticity is the brain's ability to change in response to environmental demands. This occurs through neuronal unmasking and neural pruning. Neuronal unmasking is when the brain activates dormant neurons and strengthens them through practice, which increases neuronal density in the areas of the brain with recent patterns of activity. Long-term potentiation is the term used for the strengthening of neural networks through recent patterns of activity in specific regions of the brain that cause a long-lasting increase in signal transmission in those regions and this explains how the brain structure changes as a result of environmental demands. However, a lack of activity in neural networks leads to the weakening and the elimination of these networks which is known as neural pruning. Many studies have investigated neuroplasticity in action, namely Maguire et al. (2000) which investigated whether structural changes were evident in the brains of people with extensive experience in spatial navigation.

The study compared MRI scans of 16 right-handed male taxi drivers in London that have all been driving for at least 1.5 years to the MRI scans of 50 right-handed males from the London Hospital who were not taxi drivers. The mean age did not differ between the experimental group and the control group. They found that the taxi drivers had increased grey matter in the hippocampal areas as compared to the control group which suggests that the hippocampus plays a role in spatial navigation. Furthermore, they found that the taxi drivers had larger posterior hippocampi than the control group, whilst the control group had larger anterior hippocampus than the taxi drivers. This demonstrates long-term potentiation occurring in the taxi drivers' posterior hippocampi. Since, the taxi drivers use their spatial navigation skills frequently, the recent activity in the posterior hippocampus leads to the strengthening of the neural networks in that region which increases the neural density and is evident through the larger volume of the posterior hippocampus in the taxi drivers. Moreover, a positive correlation between the number of years driving and the volume of the posterior hippocampus was discovered, which creates a direct link between increased use of spatial navigation skills and the volume of that region. This further demonstrates the effects of long-term potentiation on brain structure and, therefore, the relationship between brain structure and environmental demands. They concluded that the structural changes were evident in the brains of the taxi drivers, with extensive experience in spatial navigation and the findings of this study act as evidence for neuroplasticity as the changes in the volume of the posterior hippocampus (a change in the structure of the brain) is shown to be impacted by the experience in spatial navigation (the environmental demand).

Feedback:

Excellent links made.

You described two specific parts of neuroplasticity, but not what it is in general.

Forget the labs and lecture halls. You can conduct your very own psych experiments at home. Famous psychological experiments from Freud's ego to the Skinner box have changed the way science views human behavior. But how do these tests really work? In Psych Experiments you'll learn how to test out these theories and experiments for yourself. No psychology degree required. Guided by Michael A Britt, creator of popular podcast The Psych Files, you can conduct your own experiments when browsing your favorite websites to test the curiosity effect in restaurants, learning how to increase your tips when presented with advertisements, you'd be surprised how much you're influenced by the color red and even right on your smartphone and why you panic when you can't find it. You'll even figure out how contagious yawning works. With this compulsively readable little book, you won't just read about the history of psychology; you'll live it. The general purpose with which this book has been written is sufficiently indicated by its title. I have selected a number of the classical experiments of Experimental Psychology and have tried to present them in such a way that their performance shall have a real disciplinary value for the undergraduate student. Within this general purpose, my aim has been two fold. I have sought to show in the first place that psychology is above the laboratory; that we employ our instruments of precision not for their own sake but solely because they help us to a refined and more accurate introspection. And secondly just as in my Outline of Psychology and Primer of Psychology I gave the results of experimentation a prominent place in the psychological system so here I have treated the selected experiments not as separate exercises but as points of departure for systematic discussion PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved Journal of Experimental Psychology,1917 The Pedagogical Seminary ,1924 Vols 5 15 include Bibliography of child study by Louis N Wilson Psych City Robert Cohen,1973 Se trata de una extensa y flexible aproximacion al desarrollo del conocimiento social con el fin de proporcionar a los miembros de la comunidad un mejor entendimiento de las reglas problemas y modelos de vida en nuestra sociedad Por esto se analizan las fuerzas y sistemas sociales y politicos que influyen en la comunidad University of Toronto Studies, Psychology Series ,1907 The American Year Book ,1917 The British Journal of Psychology ,1921 An Index to Legal Periodical Literature ,1899 Covers English language periodical literature relating to law from the late 1700s through 1937 Volumes 1 2 contain citations to articles published in general interest as well as legal periodicals An index to legal periodical literature Leonard Augustus Jones,1899 The Illinois Medical Journal ,1926 Annual Report Great Britain.
