1849-1950 Charlotte de Mille, 2011-01-18 Music and Modernism is a collection of essays which re-evaluates the significant connections between the disciplines of music, fine art and architecture in the period covering the emergence and flowering of modernism c 1849-1950. Combining established scholars in the field with those at the start of their careers, this book presents an exceptional cross-section of European and American modernism through a series of detailed case studies. Avoiding a simplistic engagement with cross or inter-disciplinarity, the focus of attention centres on themes that became key to modernist artists and critics: association, perception, representation, subjectivity, writing and language. Accordingly, this book re-thinks modernism itself in the light of both the fine arts and music to advocate a multiplicity of modernisms from which it is necessary for scholars to construct their own narratives. Catalogue of Printed Books in the Library of the British

Museum British Museum. Department of Printed Books, 1889 "Manet, Wagner, and the Musical Culture of Their Time"

Therese Dolan, 2017-07-05 How did the tumult caused by German composer Richard Wagner result in the first modernist painting? In the first full-length book dedicated to the study of Edouard Manet and music, art historian Therese Dolan demonstrates that the 1862 painting Music in the Tuileries represents the progressive musical culture of his time heretofore read by scholars predominantly through the words of Charles Baudelaire. Dolan sees in this painting's radical style the conceptual shift to modernism in both painting and music, a transition that she convincingly argues received a strong impetus from Manet's Music in the Tuileries and Wagner's controversial Tannhäuser, which premiered the previous year. Supplemental to analysis of the painting, Dolan incorporates discussion of texts by Théophile Gautier, Champfleury and Baudelaire, who are represented in the painting. This book incorporates studies of the major artistic, literary and musical figures of nineteenth-century France. It represents an important contribution to an understanding of French culture in the third quarter of the nineteenth century, a period of intense literary, artistic and musical activity that formed the crucible for modernism.

Salons, Singers and Songs David Tunley, 2017-07-12 Music It is the great pleasure of this city, the great occupation of the drawing rooms, which have banished politics and which have renounced literature from ennui. Jules Janin, An American in Paris, 1843. Afternoon and evening entertainments in the drawing rooms of the aristocracy and upper middle classes were a staple of cultural life in nineteenth-century Paris. Music was often a feature of these occasions and private salons provided important opportunities for musicians, especially singers, to develop their careers. Such recitals included excerpts from favourite operas but also the more traditional forms of French song, the romance, and its successor, the mélodie. Drawing on extensive research into the musical press of the period, David Tunley paints a vivid portrait of the nineteenth-century Parisian salons and the performers who sang in them Against this colourful backdrop he discusses the development of French romantic song with its hallmarks of simplicity and clarity of diction Combined with Italian influences and the impression made by Schubert s songs the French romance developed into a form with greater complexity the m die Salons Singers and Songs describes this transformation and the seeds it sowed for music by later composers such as Faur Duparc and Debussy

French Opera at the Fin de Siècle Steven Huebner,2006-02-02 This is the first book length study of the rich operatic repertory written and performed in France during the last two decades of the nineteenth century Steven Huebner gives an accessible and colorful account of such operatic favorites as Manon and Werther by Massenet Louise by Charpentier and lesser known gems such as Chabrier s Le Roi malgr lui and Chausson s Le Roi Arthus
