Statistical Analysis
Descriptive statistics were calculated for each variable. The chi-square test was used to compare the proportion of subjects with each level of the dependent variable across the independent variables. The Fisher's exact test was used when the expected cell count was less than 5. The odds ratio (OR) and 95% confidence interval (CI) were calculated for each variable. The OR was used to measure the association between the independent variables and the dependent variable. The 95% CI was used to measure the precision of the OR. The OR and 95% CI were calculated for each variable. The OR was used to measure the association between the independent variables and the dependent variable. The 95% CI was used to measure the precision of the OR.
