

Pet Architecture

And how to Use It

TOSHIHARU TSUKAMOTO

When we walk on the streets of Tokyo we feel amazingly small buildings between streets, along railroad tracks, and in the spaces between tracks and streets. Most of these buildings are cheaply built, and therefore not spectacular in design, and they do not use the forefront of technology.

However, they attract us, I may be because their presence produces a relaxed atmosphere, and makes us feel relaxed. Their shapes and forms that do not conform to styles and perceptions are interesting to our eyes. They illustrate unique ideas with elements of fun without putting in unreasonable conditions such as total price, size, and width.

These buildings produce a sense of something I thought when one day I realized that they are like pets. Our society does not consist only of human beings. Various animals come into our lives as 'pets', and they are given spaces to live. It may be for our own convenience, but playing with pets is a lot of fun. It is said that connecting with pets relaxes many people psychologically. It is because they have a totally different existence from us other than our hair, fur, ears, clothes and speak words. This play is quite good for our mental health since pets are not subjects of direct comparison to us, human beings. In other words, if decent buildings standing in decent spaces are to be considered human beings, small buildings standing with all their might in odd spaces would seem to be like pets in urban spaces, due to the sense of distance from human beings and the sense of presence in proximity. If we think this way, we are able to enjoy many different kinds of buildings. In a small, we have decided to call small buildings 'Pet Architecture', those that are smaller than 'mini houses' (a term used to make fun of small houses in Tokyo) and bigger than doghouses. We allow the existence of pets in the jungle of buildings, as there are pets in the world of human beings.

By giving this title, we aimed to establish one new category in urban structure by going from a certain name and not by negatively considering them as openings and tiny rooms. I have tentatively talked about this concept to different people and, surprisingly found that many of them told me about their 'My Pet Architecture' existing in their daily lives.
