2016

National Park Service CENTENNIAL

As the National Park Service celebrates its 100th birthday, we are proud to share the story of the agency's rich history and the many ways it has shaped the American landscape. From the first national monument to the present day, the Park Service has been a steward of our nation's most treasured natural and cultural resources.

The National Park Service is a federal agency within the United States Department of the Interior. It is responsible for managing the nation's system of public lands and monuments, preserving the natural and cultural resources of the United States, and providing for the enjoyment of the American people in the parks and monuments.
