

Loss of Faith in Night by Elie Wiesel

Topic: Literature | Words: 586 | Pages: 2

One of the main themes of Wiesel's 'Night' is faith in God. Throughout the book the faith of the narrator, Eliezer, undergoes many assaults. In the beginning we see his 'totalistic and zealous commitment to God', as Downing describes his state of faith (62). Eliezer grew up believing, that everything in this world is emanation of God, who possesses both goodness and omnipotence, and there is a spark of God's light in every human's soul. So, he lived in a good world, ruled by good God. He did... till one day his habitual life ceased to exist. He faces the Holocaust, and it turns all his life and his beliefs upside down.

That is when he begins first to ask God different questions, then to question the very existence of God. Facing sufferings often becomes a crucial point, at which a person decides, whether to continue believing in God or not. This was also true with Eliezer. This was always true – even the Bible, filled with the stories of various men and women of faith, depicts their doubt, their spiritual struggles, and sometimes their indignation with God. So did Job, so did this little boy, Eliezer.

Probably, the turning point for Eliezer was, when he saw a boy, dying slowly, hanging on gallows. Wiesel, in this scene, shows discouragement and loss of believe of many people: 'Behind me, I heard the same man asking: Where is God now? And I heard a voice within me answer him:... Here He is – He is hanging here on this gallows' (Wiesel 72).

Eliezer called those moments as moments, that murdered his God, his soul and turned his dreams to dust (Wiesel 43). He could not bless God's
