teaching international law Navigating the Global Stage: Understanding International Politics Diplomat Adriana Coelho, 2024-07-05 Introduction to international politics encompasses a broad and dynamic field that examines the interactions relations and power dynamics among nations on the global stage It explores the complex web of diplomatic negotiations geopolitical rivalries economic interdependencies and security challenges that shape the international system At its core international politics revolves around the pursuit of national interests and the exercise of power by states in the international arena States seek to advance their economic political and security objectives through diplomacy alliances and strategic maneuvering often in the context of competing ideologies values and geopolitical ambitions Key themes in international politics include State Sovereignty The principle of state sovereignty asserts that states have the exclusive authority and jurisdiction over their territory government and population Sovereignty forms the foundation of the modern state system and shapes interactions between states in international relations Power and Influence Power is a central concept in international politics encompassing military capabilities economic resources diplomatic influence and soft power States seek to enhance their power and influence to protect their interests assert their values and achieve their strategic objectives Security and Conflict Security is a paramount concern in international politics encompassing military threats terrorism nuclear proliferation and cyber warfare Conflict and violence whether interstate or intrastate pose significant challenges to peace stability and human security in the international system Diplomacy and Negotiation Diplomacy is the primary means by which states conduct their relations and resolve disputes in international politics Diplomatic negotiations summits and treaties play a crucial role in managing conflicts building alliances and promoting cooperation on global issues Asian Yearbook of International Law B.S. Chimni, Miyoshi Masahiro, Li-ann Thio, 2010-10-06 Launched in 1991 the Asian Yearbook of International Law is a major refereed publication dedicated to international law issues as seen primarily from an Asian perspective under the auspices of the Foundation for the Development of International Law in Asia DILA It is the first publication of its kind edited by a team of leading international law scholars from across Asia The Yearbook provides a forum for the publication of articles in the field of international law and other Asian international law topics written by experts from the region and elsewhere Its aim is twofold to promote international law in Asia and to provide an intellectual platform for the discussion and dissemination of Asian views and practices on contemporary international legal issues Each volume of the Yearbook normally contains articles and shorter notes a section on State practice an overview of Asian states participation in multilateral treaties succinct analysis of recent international legal developments in Asia an agora section devoted to critical perspectives on international law issues surveys of the activities of international organizations of special relevance to Asia and book review bibliography and documents sections It will be of interest to students and academics interested in international law and Asian studies Forging Partnerships J. Eduardo Malaya, Maria Antonina Mendoza- Oblena, 2016 Unpacking the Death Penalty in ASEAN Sriprapha Petcharamesree, Mark P. Capaldi, Alan Collins, 2023-03-20 This book contributes conceptually theoretically and morally to a deeper understanding of the distinctive Asian perceptions of punishment justice and human rights. Researched and prepared by scholars who have not only been conducting studies on the death penalty in the region but have also been advocating for legal reforms, this edited book touches upon the different justifications for the use of capital punishment in the ASEAN region, exposing the secrecy, sensitivities and dilemmas that mask violations of international human rights laws. The chapters bring in numerous new perspectives which have been overlooked in the traditional discourse surrounding the use of the death penalty, such as that around crimes that do not meet the threshold of most serious, the dignity of death row inmates and their families, contradictions within religion and capital punishment, and the way in which growing authoritarianism and the media are adversely influencing the public's perception and support for capital punishment in the region. In examining how public opinion shapes state policies towards the death penalty and how it varies according to different offences and different states, the authors critically analyse how the international human rights mechanisms have specifically called for ASEAN member states to refrain from extending the application of the death penalty and to limit it to the most serious crimes. Relevant to socio-legal scholars focused on crime and punishment in Southeast Asia and in the Global South, more broadly, this is a landmark collection in criminology and human rights scholarship.

We live in a kaleidoscopic world in the new Anthropocene Epoch. This calls for a more inclusive public international law that accepts diverse actors in addition to States and other sources of law, including individualized voluntary commitments. Norms are critical to the stability and legitimacy of this international system. They underlie responses to rapid change, to new technological developments and to problems of protecting commons, promoting public goods and providing social and economic justice. Certain fundamental norms can be identified; others are emerging. The norm of mutual accountability underpins the implementation of other norms. Norms are especially relevant to frontier technologies such as synthetic biology, digital currencies, cyber activity and climate interventions, as addressed in the book Reconceiving public international law, lessens the sharp divide between public and private law and between domestic and international law.

Post-award Interest in the Asia-Pacific Kevin Kim, John Bang, 2023-03-09

The Yukos Awards are among some of the most widely discussed awards in international arbitration. A remarkable point that does not receive the interest it deserves is the fact that post-award interest has added USD 7 billion to the awarded value, making a considerable impact on arguably the biggest case to be handled via international arbitration. Even though post-award interest can have very serious economic consequences, most attention in academic literature to the question of interest is limited to pre-award interest, where the discussion revolves around formulaic approaches towards ensuring that pre-award interest is accounted for in claims for compensation. Post-award interest is either ignored completely or when discussed there is not enough appreciation of the complex questions in terms of conflict of law specific jurisdictional issues among others that are central to any reasonable discussion of post award interest Responding to the dearth of attention paid to this very serious but often overlooked area this text provides an in depth analysis of the subject ensuring comprehensive coverage of all relevant issues in major Asian Pacific and Middle Eastern jurisdictions arguably the fastest growing economic regions in the world The book is structured in a manner where a leading lawyer from a jurisdiction has contributed a chapter providing analysis on all possible questions that a reader may have in relation to post award interest The eighteen jurisdictions that have been covered are Australia Hong Kong India Indonesia Japan Malaysia Myanmar New Zealand Pakistan People s Republic of China the Philippines the Republic of Korea Singapore Taiwan Thailand Qatar United Arab Emirates and Vietnam Each chapter provides an in depth analysis of the law on post award interest including questions of private international law while simultaneously providing practical guidance on the following questions power to award post award interest determination of applicable rate procedural questions public policy issues and role of national courts The text is structured in an easy to use manner with each author responding to the same set of questions making comparative research across jurisdictions very easy and efficient Parties and counsel involved in arbitral proceedings with a nexus to the jurisdictions covered in this book will find the insights provided valuable and unquestionably so will arbitral tribunals From an academic perspective this publication is sure to lead to further debate on the topic Policymakers may also take inspiration from comparing the approach taken in other jurisdictions on matters of post award interest when refining the legal framework in their home jurisdictions This book will hopefully contribute to the ongoing efforts to bring about consistency and predictability in the manner in which tribunals deal with damages in general and post award interest in particular

Buhain, 1998 Hague Yearbook of International Law / Annuaire de La Haye de droit international, Vol. 33 \(2020\) Jure Vidmar, 2022-10-24 The aim of the Hague Yearbook of International Law is to offer a platform for review of new developments in the field of international law In addition it devotes attention to developments in the international law institutions based in the international City of Peace and Justice The Hague As of the 2010 Volume the Yearbook has been compiled by a new and expanded Editorial Board offering fresh ideas and a new approach A newly established Advisory Board has also been added including leading judges practitioners and scholars Sections have been created on public international law private international law international investment law and international criminal law containing in depth articles on current issues The breadth of the Yearbook s content thus offers an interesting and valuable illustration of the dynamic developments in the various sub areas of international law Index to Foreign Legal Periodicals, 1969 International Trade and Food Security Michael Ewing-Chow, Melanie Vilarasau Slade, 2016-01-29 Food security is one of the greatest challenges of our time The food price crisis of 2008 exposed the vulnerabilities of the global food system Governments across Asia exacerbated the crisis by imposing export restrictions based on a policy of self sufficiency This book assesses whether self sufficiency is an adequate response to the food security challenges we face Pricing volatility drives isolationism at a time when climate change and increasingly uncertain weather patterns make it difficult for any single nation to guarantee adequate food production for itself Through a collection of commissioned studies which draw upon the experience of leading experts and scholars in trade investment law economics and food policy this book analyses the impact of this trend on the most essential crop in the Asian region rice It suggests that food security policy should be reconceptualised from the national to the regional and even the global level It also provides its own proposals as to how this new paradigm of collective food security should be understood and developed The book calls for a new conversation in the region acknowledging that the challenges we face are global and the solutions must be found in collective action This state of the art study will appeal to lawyers economists and political scientists as well as food security specialists by providing expert analyses and enlightening solutions for the future
