, 1968 Feminism, Labour and Digital Media Kylie Jarrett, 2015-11-19 There is a contradiction at the heart of digital media We use commercial platforms to express our identity to build community and to engage politically At the same time our status updates tweets videos photographs and music files are free content for these sites We are also generating an almost endless supply of user data that can be mined re purposed and sold to advertisers As users of the commercial web we are socially and creatively engaged but also labourers exploited by the companies that provide our communication platforms How do we reconcile these contradictions Feminism Labour and Digital Media argues for using the work of Marxist feminist theorists about the role of domestic work in capitalism to explore these competing dynamics of consumer labour It uses the concept of the Digital Housewife to outline the relationship between the work we do online and the unpaid sphere of social reproduction It demonstrates how feminist perspectives expand our critique of consumer labour in digital media In doing so the Digital Housewife returns feminist inquiry from the margins and places it at the heart of critical digital media analysis
