Throughout history, the awareness of good and evil has always been linked to the awareness of choice and to the freedom and responsibility to choose; this is what makes us human. But the responsibility to choose is a burden that weighs heavily on our shoulders, and the temptation to hand this over to someone else, be they a demagogue or a scientist who claims to trace everything back to our genes, is a tempting illusion. Like the paradise in which humans have at last been relieved of the moral responsibility for their actions. In the second series of their conversations, Zygmunt Bauman and Stanislaw Obirek reflect on the life challenges confronted by the denizens of the fragmented, individualized society of consumers and the form taken in such a society by the fundamental aspects of the human condition, such as human responsibility for the choice between good and evil, self-formation and self-assertion, the need for recognition, or the call to empathy, mutual respect, human
