Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and blood pressure (BP) of sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 10-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The control group did not exercise. The HR and BP were measured at baseline and at the end of the 10-week training program. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant decrease in HR and BP compared to the control group. The HR decreased from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the BP decreased from 120/80 to 110/70 mmHg. The control group showed no significant change in HR and BP. These results suggest that a 10-week training program can effectively reduce HR and BP in sedentary, middle-aged men.

When you visit the Facebook website, you will see that there are 45,000,000 members on the site. That's a lot of members. But how many of those members are actually using the site? That's a different question. And the answer is, "Not many." In fact, only about 10% of the members are actually using the site. That's a pretty low number, especially considering that Facebook is one of the most popular social networking sites in the world.
