Housing Choices and Well-Being of Older Adults Leon A. Pastalan, Benjamin Schwarz, 2013-10-08 Make housing for the elderly comfortable, efficient, and appropriate to their special needs. Today, people are living longer lives than ever before, and elderly people need to live in settings that reflect their individual capabilities. They need safe and appropriate homes, appliances, and furnishings that they will not lose the ability to use and enjoy in the years of decline. Housing Choices and Well-Being of Older Adults: Proper Fit addresses the challenge of matching the attributes of residential settings for older adults with the competence of the people who live in them. This book views housing for the elderly as a special case in terms of the person-environment paradigm. It highlights the recurring themes that give housing for the elderly a measure of order and predictability. Care providers, consultants for retirement communities, researchers in the fields of aging and environment, or gerontology, university libraries, and members of housing associations for the elderly will benefit from the timely and vital information in this book. Easy to understand charts and tables make the information even more accessible. Housing Choices and Well-Being of Older Adults discusses the state of theory development in environmental gerontology, housing needs of the elderly, quality issues in this type of setting design and development, issues with kitchen, bathroom, and bedroom applications for elderly people in various states of health, home safety issues, and much more, and the issues surrounding continued aging and its implications for supportive environmental health and psychosocial services, the economic and financial concerns of aging adults, housing management, and community issues. Use what you'll find in Housing Choices and Well-Being of Older Adults to ensure that the elderly people in your life are comfortable in an environment that is safe and appropriate.

Professional Care for the Elderly Mentally Ill Liz Matthew, 2013-11-11 Services to older people with mental health problems have gone through radical change in recent years Legislation has had a profound effect by dictating how care to older people is delivered both within hospital and within the community The recent government agenda emphasizes cost effectiveness value for money and accountability This too is an important driving force in re-evaluating the service although not everyone would agree with many of the proposed strategies and there are clearly different views as to the appropriateness of many of the services One thing is certain however the move towards interdisciplinary working is here to stay Not all change has been led by legislation and many innovations have been founded in the day to day practices in the care of older people with mental health problems A service of course does not become integrated merely by imposing joint working on a number of professionally based disciplines and in many ways this may not be desirable At its worst it produces duplication where people from different backgrounds are all doing the same job This is not the intention of joint working instead it should attempt to improve the quality of service by a rich mix of skills and experience from a number of related disciplines
