

High School Graduation Speech June 6, 2008

J. André de Barros Teixeira
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
International School of Brussels

Ladies and gentlemen of the Class of 2008,

In this moment of pride for yourselves, your friends, your parents, your beloved ones, I bring to you a message of humility.

In a time of disintegration, of broken down values, of fragmented principles, I dare to call your attention to the holistic beauty of this moment.

It was only twelve years ago when you crossed the gates of this or another school, fearing the forsaken solitude of the interminable hours between that grudgingly uttered good bye and the sight of your mum or dad at the patio again at the end of the day.

It was probably just seven years ago when home work began to build up as a chore to be performed on a daily and grinding basis.

Three years have passed since you felt that the peak of achievement waited for you in the High School classrooms.

And here you are today, wondering what next.

There is pride in your eyes, there is hope in your hearts and there are plans for glory in your minds.

Pride, hope and glory are well deserved, and you must savor the moment, as the diver who jumps from the highest cliff.

However, neither pride or hope or glory is a good strategy. Being humble, focused and not seeking the credit will do a lot more to move you to the next level. The thrill of the jump and the coolness of the water are simple preludes to climbing the whole cliff back again, reaching the new peak with sweat and tears.

In a world of interminable wars, of terrorism-laden territories, of famine amidst incomparable wealth, you have been privileged to be exposed to the greatest of all diversities: That of cultures, habits, languages, attitudes and patterns of behavior. Very few schools in the world can boast the enormous diversity of nationalities to be found at ISB. Moreover, you are now a strong generation of multinational, and dare I say, transnational individuals, whose ability to cope with and celebrate diversity is second to none.

Tolerance and understanding are the most effective antidote to prejudice. Like a parachute, your mind functions better because it is open. Like an iPod, you carry in your heads a baggage of sounds and images that will shape the choices you will be making in the very near future.

However, nothing will replace your focus on your principles, your values, the ethical and moral ground where all great ideas flourish. Nothing will take away the need to look after your family, your friends, your health. Nothing will replace your need to be fair and just, understanding and courageous in the face of adversity.

nonwhite communities and charged rhetoric that targets African Americans immigrants and others can be politically advantageous Racialized communication persists as a well worn campaign strategy because it has real electoral value for both white and black politicians seeking to broaden their coalitions Stephens Dougan reveals that claims of racial progress have been overstated as our politicians are incentivized to employ racial prejudices at the expense of the most marginalized in our society      Resources in Education ,2000-04      Work and Education in America Antje Barabasch,Felix

Taking Stock of Programs to Develop Socioemotional Skills Maria Laura Sánchez Puerta, Alexandria Valerio, Marcela Gutiérrez Bernal, 2016-08-17 This book represents a systematic review of the documented impacts of programs aimed at fostering socio emotional skills in developed and developing countries It uses a life cycle approach to organize the findings from rigorous evaluations of more than 80 programs This includes programs for toddlers and young children before primary school programs for students enrolled in formal education and programs targeted at the out of school population The book develops a conceptual framework that helps to identify the program characteristics and participants profiles associated with a range of program outcomes These include health related behavioral academic or cognitive and economic related outcomes The review finds that few of the programs studied focus exclusively on the development of socio emotional skills In fact most efforts to develop socio emotional skills are embedded within innovative education and training curricula as well as pedagogical and classroom practices Evidence shows that programs are particularly effective when targeted to highly vulnerable populations and in particular to young children Overall findings indicate that high quality programs for young children tend to foster cognitive abilities in the short run and to impact socio emotional skills over the long run Programs for students enrolled in formal education primary and secondary levels show positive and significant impacts on the outcomes reviewed The most successful of these programs are implemented school wide and follow the SAFE approach that is they are appropriately sequenced active focused and explicit Finally the review finds that programs for out of school children and youth are usually designed as a means of achieving immediate labor market outcomes e g job placement formal employment and higher wages While some of these programs show positive and statistically significant impacts on socio emotional skills the impacts tend to be small
