Organizational Report Cards William T. Gormley Jr., David L. Weimer, 1999-03 In recent years consumers professional organizations government officials and third party payers have become increasingly concerned about how to assess the quality of the services provided by organizations in both the private and the public sectors One new approach is the organizational report card which compares the performance of organizations such as public schools colleges hospitals and HMOs This book offers the first comprehensive study of such instruments It discusses the circumstances under which they are desirable alternatives to other policy instruments such as regulation how they should be designed who is likely to use them and for what purpose and what role if any government should have in their creation Informed by cases drawn from education health and other policy areas this book develops a conceptual framework for analyzing these issues It explores the tradeoffs in measuring performance the methods of communicating results effectively to mass and elite audiences and the ways in which organizations respond to the data gathered

School Resources, the Achievement Gap, and the Law David J. Armor, John R. Munich, Aron Malatinszky, 2024-01-12 This book offers a novel and up to date exploration of the common belief that increasing conventional school resources will increase academic achievement and help close gaps between various advantaged and disadvantaged students Taking the scholarship around this question such as James S Coleman's 1965 report on the Equality of Educational Opportunity as a starting point it brings in an extensive range of contemporary data sources and statistical analysis to offer an updated robust and considered review of the issue Moving beyond these empirical questions it also explores how these empirical findings have been utilized in education adequacy litigation discussing the evolving law of adequacy cases while explaining the challenges of introducing complex data and analyses within a litigation framework Judges typically have little experience with the complexity of modern education data and the analyses required to draw sound inferences It will thus be of interest to scholars researchers and faculty and jurists with expertise or interest in education policy the economics and sociology of education and public policy American Education William John Bennett, United States.
