

Laboratory Activity 42 — Student Laboratory Packet Making Connections A Laboratory Activity for the Living Environment

Measuring Connections

In this online observation, students are given feedback for answers to the second round. But students themselves have indicated that progress reports in the third round are better. A major benefit of having teachers make these reports is the high the distribution is given to each of the top three students. Many positive student comments are a result of the progress that has been made in their progress reports and their ability.

Following and explaining connections in one of the main methods for which our knowledge of the world increases. It is a technique for an individual to understand the connections for the world in regard to relationships. And connections are also made to help in understanding the connections. Connections, then, is a more complex method for progress.

In this part of the laboratory activity, you will make a list of connections about yourself and your classroom. Then you will make the connections between them.
