Abstract

[illegible]

Blackburn's investigation found the British government and the majority of the political leadership in the north government departments were opposed to the growth of federalism in the province at the time of the 1960 election, and that against the aspirations and expressed confidence of the northern people there was to be no general federal situation, other arrangements, such as the formation of a federation in the central region, were not given further consideration. These were the general findings of Blackburn's report published in 1961.

As a result, the government is spending more money on the health care system than it has in the past. The government is also spending more money on the health care system than it has in the past. The government is also spending more money on the health care system than it has in the past.
