Schostak, 2009-12-16 Violence democracy and rights are issues that are not fully addressed in research methodology literatures yet violence is of vital interest in substantive and theoretical debates across the social sciences education philosophy politics and cultural studies Methodology needs to be informed by and be relevant to the debates and practices within and across these perspectives on the worlds of everyday life Research is fundamentally entwined with the political the ethical and the legal When it presumes the neutrality of method and ignores its radical roots of inquiry it is in danger of being politically co opted and ethically naive Research that reveals what is at stake politically ethically and legally is typically open to accusations of being partisan and therefore political It cannot avoid being political in the broadest sense of the word and consequently the researcher cannot escape through some mystical notion of being objective the political ethical and legal consequences of undertaking research Research is vital to the construction of public spaces for debate decision making and action Hence there is a close relationship between methodological practices research design and the conditions under which violence democracy and rights can be addressed Researching Violence Democracy and the Rights of People explores what is at stake methodologically both theoretically and practically for researchers seeking to expand opportunities for people to become visible upon the public stages of debate decision making and action and thus make audible their experiences of wrongs and injustices express their rights and engage democratically in processes of change Drawing on international contributions and contexts this book introduces readers to the complex realities of real research and the substantive issues that their methodological approaches strive to deal with It will benefit undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as post doctoral and experienced researchers across a range of cultural and social science disciplines as well as educational and sociological researchers Its aim is to explore and contribute to the development of innovative approaches to engaging in research that make a difference in the lives of people      The European Neighbourhood Policy in Perspective R.

Whitman,S. Wolff,2010-04-09 Contributors offer new approaches to the study of the European Neighbourhood Policy While the main emphasis is on the empirical assessment of the impact that the ENP has had to date and on the factors that have shaped its implementation it also provides new theoretical and methodological perspectives on how to study this policy area

Re-reading Pat Barker Pat Wheeler,2020-05-15 Re Reading Pat Barker brings together a number of scholars from across the world who explore in detail the work of one of Britain s most notable contemporary novelists The essays both acknowledge and engage with previous scholarship re establishing Barker s eminence as a writer and adding to existing critical perspectives In the collection established Barker scholars return to her work re reading her novels to offer fresh and innovative readings and other critics who have not previously published on Barker offer new insights into her body of work The contributors examine a number of thematic concerns including matrilineal heritage masculinity the body ways of seeing institutional and personal violence psychoanalysis and gender and class The essays in the collection explore the broader social and historical aspects of Barker s novels and the aesthetics and ethical issues in her work drawing our attention to the ways that she engages with the world gesturing towards new ways of seeing and to the possibilities of personal and political regeneration The collection shows there is still much to say about the novels and the ways in which we choose to read them
