Answer the following questions:

- 1.1 Describe the hydrologic cycle, components, and processes. The hydrologic cycle is a continuous cycle of water on Earth. It involves the movement of water between the atmosphere, land, and oceans. The cycle is driven by the sun's energy, which causes water to evaporate from the surface of the Earth. The water vapor then condenses into clouds, which release precipitation in the form of rain or snow. The precipitation then flows into bodies of water, such as rivers, lakes, and oceans, or infiltrates the ground to become groundwater. The water eventually returns to the atmosphere through evaporation or transpiration from plants.
- 1.2 Define erosion, and the following erosion parts: source, transport, deposition, and sediment. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. It is caused by the movement of water, wind, and ice. The parts of erosion are: source (the area where the erosion begins), transport (the movement of the eroded material), and deposition (the area where the eroded material is deposited).
- 1.3 Define drainage basin and divide. A drainage basin is the area of land that drains into a single body of water. A divide is the boundary between two drainage basins.
- 1.4 Define drainage pattern, dendritic, and rectangular drainage patterns. A drainage pattern is the arrangement of a river and its tributaries. A dendritic drainage pattern is one in which the tributaries join the main river at right angles. A rectangular drainage pattern is one in which the tributaries join the main river at right angles.
- 1.5 Describe how erosion, transportation, and deposition are affected by wind, water, and ice. Erosion is affected by wind, water, and ice. Transportation is affected by wind, water, and ice. Deposition is affected by wind, water, and ice.
- 1.6 Define alluvial, wind, and glacial erosion. Alluvial erosion is the erosion of sediment by water. Wind erosion is the erosion of sediment by wind. Glacial erosion is the erosion of sediment by a glacier.
- 1.7 Describe how erosion is affected by transportation. Erosion is affected by transportation because the rate of erosion is directly proportional to the rate of transportation.
- 1.8 Describe the mechanisms of erosion: hydraulic action, abrasion, solution, and deflation. Hydraulic action is the erosion of sediment by the force of water. Abrasion is the erosion of sediment by the rubbing of particles against each other. Solution is the erosion of sediment by the dissolution of minerals. Deflation is the erosion of sediment by the removal of surface material.
- 1.9 Define the different types of sediment: clastic, organic, and biogenic. Clastic sediment is sediment that is composed of fragments of rocks and minerals. Organic sediment is sediment that is composed of the remains of plants and animals. Biogenic sediment is sediment that is composed of the remains of plants and animals.
