3	It is that time of year again. It is summer. And every summer I visit my grammy. Ana comes, too. Ana is my little sister.
4	Some of my friends asked, "Why do you call her Grammy?" "Well," I said. "It's because she doesn't like to be called Grandma. When we ask her why, she just laughs."
5	Our grammy is very cool. She does things most grammies don't do. She likes being silly. Sometimes we call her Silly Grammy.
6	Ana and I were getting excited to visit Grammy. So I called her on the phone. Now I am going to share what Grammy said when I called her. Then you'll know just how cool our grammy really is!
7	"I miss you!" said Grammy. "We miss you, too!" I said. "Come visit, and we will have a special vacation," said Grammy.

The Privatization of Police in America James F. Pastor, 2015-09-17 Today the private security industry employs approximately 1 5 million people and spends over 52 billion annually In contrast public police forces employ approximately 600 000 people and spend 30 billion annually Private policing promises to be a big part of the response to today s increased security concerns as citizens realize that security is much more than the presence of guards and the perception of safety This book addresses the impact and implications of private policing on public streets and begins with a look at private policing from conceptual historical economic legal and functional perspectives These approaches provide the background for the text which focuses on a private policing patrol program in a community on the south side of Chicago The text also demonstrates a number of substantive legal and public policy issues which directly or indirectly relate to the provision of security services some people see the need for a dual system of policing one for the wealthy and one for the poor and others see the provision of private security as the primary protective resource in contemporary America The author also examines how private policing is different from and similar to public policing
