

The Cornell Note-taking System

<----- 2 1/2" -----> Cue Column	<----- 6" -----> Notetaking Column 1. Record: During the lecture, use the notetaking column to record the lecture using telegraphic sentences. 2. Questions: As soon after class as possible, formulate questions based on the notes in the right-hand column. Writing questions helps to clarify meanings, reveal relationships, establish continuity, and strengthen memory. Also, the writing of questions sets up a perfect stage for exam-studying later. 3. Recite: Cover the notetaking column with a sheet of paper. Then, looking at the questions or cue-words in the question and cue column only, say aloud, in your own words, the answers to the questions, facts, or ideas indicated by the cue-words. 4. Reflect: Reflect on the material by asking yourself questions, for example: "What's the significance of these facts? What principle are they based on? How can I apply them? How do they fit in with what I already know? What's beyond them?" 5. Review: Spend at least ten minutes every week reviewing all your previous notes. If you do, you'll retain a great deal for current use, as well as, for the exam.

The ^ACensorship Effect William Olmsted, 2016-01-04 The Censorship Effect argues that the stylistic features that prompted the criminal indictment of Madame Bovary and Les Fleurs du Mal were the products of an intense struggle and negotiation with a culture of censorship

The Expressionist Turn in Art History Kimberly A. Smith, 2017-07-05 During the period in which Expressionist artists were active in central Europe art historians were producing texts which also began to be characterized evocatively as expressionist yet the notion of an expressionist art history has yet to be fully explored in historiographic studies of the discipline This anthology offers a cross section of noteworthy art history texts that have been described as expressionist along with critical commentaries by an international group of scholars Written between 1912 and 1933 the primary sources have been selected from the published scholarship of both recognized and less familiar figures in the field's Germanic tradition Wilhelm Worringer Fritz Burger Ernst Heidrich Max Dvor Heinrich W Ifflin and Carl Einstein Translated here for the first time these examples of an expressionist turn in art history along with their secondary analyses and the book's introduction offer a productive lens through which to re examine

Jonathan Arac, Harriet Ritvo, 2016-11-11 In contrast to the micropolitics of Foucault macropolitics emphasizes that political transformations at the level of the state have great importance for many developments in nineteenth century writing

Connecting the Dots Richard K. Caputo, 2017-11-21 Richard K Caputo an under the radar social work scholar shares lessons about finding his voice as a scholar overcoming obstacles and navigating the rigors and expectations of academia in this memoir From his days as an undergraduate to a graduate student from being a paraprofessional at Arizona State Hospital and Division of Behavioral Health Services to a professional social worker at a family service agency then known as United Charities of Chicago and from an agency based professional to an academic he reveals the trials tribulations and tradeoffs that went with each transition He also pays homage to the mentors that helped him succeed in his various roles including being a junior faculty member at the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work a continuing contract faculty member at the Barry University School of Social Work and finally as a tenured faculty member at the Yeshiva University Wurzweiler School of Social Work Join the author as he chronicles his journey navigating the political and social environment from the 1960s through the 2010s and juggling the demands of university life in Connecting the Dots Buried Lives

Michele Lise Tarter, Richard Bell, 2012 Buried Lives offers the first critical examination of the experience of imprisonment in early America These interdisciplinary essays investigate several carceral institutions to show how confinement shaped identity politics and the social imaginary both in the colonies and in the new nation The historians and literary scholars included in this volume offer a complement and corrective to conventional understandings of incarceration that privilege the intentions of those in power over the experiences of prisoners Considering such varied settings as jails penitentiaries almshouses workhouses floating prison ships and plantations the contributors reconstruct the struggles of people imprisoned in locations from Antigua to Boston The essays draw upon a rich array of archival sources from the seventeenth century to the eve of the Civil War including warden logs petitions execution sermons physicians clinical notes private letters newspaper articles runaway slave advertisements and legal documents Through the voices bodies and texts of the incarcerated Buried Lives reveals the largely ignored experiences of inmates who contested their subjection to regimes of power Making the "America of Art" Naomi Z. Sofer, 2005 Making the America of Art demonstrates that beginning in the 1850s women writers challenged the terms of the Scottish Common Sense philosophy which had made artistic endeavors acceptable in the new Republic by subordinating aesthetic motivation to moral and educational goals Harriet Beecher Stowe and Augusta Jane Evans drew on Ruskin to argue for the creation of a religiously based national aesthetic In the postbellum years Louisa May Alcott Rebecca Harding Davis Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Constance Fenimore Woolson continued the process in a series of writings that revolved around three central areas of concern the place of the popular in the realm of high art the role of the genius and the legacy of the Civil War Sofer significantly revises the history of 19th century American women's authorship by detailing the gradual process that produced women writers wholly identified with literary high culture at the century's end

Resisting Napoleon Mark Philp, 2016-12-05 The long war with Revolutionary France had a fundamental impact on British political culture The most dramatic example of this is the mass mobilisation of the British people in response to French invasion threats throughout the last years of the century but most spectacularly in the period 1803-5 after the collapse of the Peace of Amiens and the massing of an invasion fleet by Napoleon The preparations for the threatened invasion had many dimensions including military and naval mobilization the development of defensive earthworks and fortifications on the British Coast the surveillance and monitoring of radicals identified with the French cause the incitement of loyalist sentiment through caricature newspapers tracts and broadsides and loyalist songs and the construction of Napoleon as the prime enemy of British interests Although aspects of these issues have been studied this book is the first time that they have been brought together systematically By bringing together historians of Britain and France to examine the dynamics of the military conflict between the two nations in this period this book measures its impact on their domestic political cultures and its effect on their perceptions of each other In so doing it will encourage scholars to further examine aspects of popular mobilisation which have hitherto been largely ignored such as the resurgence of loyalism in 1803 and to see their contributions in the light of the dual contexts of domestic political conflict and their war with each other By allowing scholars to focus their attention on this period of heightened tension the book contributes both new detail to our understanding of the period and a better overall understanding of the complex place which each nation came to occupy in the consciousness of the other

My Way John Martin Fischer, 2006-03-02 This is a selection of essays on moral responsibility that represent the major components of John Martin Fischer's overall approach to freedom of the will and moral responsibility The collection exhibits the overall structure of Fischer's view and shows how the various elements fit together to form a comprehensive framework for analyzing free will and moral responsibility The topics include deliberation and practical reasoning freedom of the will freedom of action various notions of control and moral accountability The essays seek to provide a foundation for our practices of holding each other and ourselves morally and legally accountable for our behavior A crucial move is the distinction between two kinds of control According to Fischer regulative control involves freedom to choose and do otherwise alternative possibilities whereas guidance control does not Fischer contends that guidance control is all the freedom we need to be morally responsible agents Further he contends that such control is fully compatible with causal determinism Additionally Fischer argues that we do not need genuine access to alternative possibilities in order for there to be a legitimate point to practical reasoning Fischer's overall framework contains an argument for the contention that guidance control and not regulative control is associated with moral responsibility a sketch of a comprehensive theory of moral responsibility that ties together responsibility for actions omissions consequences and character and an account of the value of moral responsibility On this account the value of exhibiting freedom of the relevant sort and thus being morally responsible for one's behavior is a species of the value of artistic self expression Katherine Mansfield and Translation Claire Davison, 2015-09-23 This volume enables students and scholars to appreciate Mansfield's central place in various trans-European networks of modernism working in or through translation and translated idioms
