Educating for Diversity and Social Justice Amanda Keddie, 2012-03-12 Educating for Diversity and Social Justice foregrounds the personal stories of educators who are engaging the space of schooling as a site of possibility for realizing the goals of social justice. It is a book inspired by a vision of education as a practice of freedom where young people especially those who are marginalized can learn that they have a voice and the power to change their world for the better. Drawing on the work of US philosopher Nancy Fraser, the book examines issues of justice and schooling in relation to three dimensions: political, cultural, and economic. While its focus is on research within three Australian case study schools, the book provides an international perspective of these dimensions of justice in western education contexts as they impact on the schooling performance of marginalized students. Towards greater equity for these students, the book presents a comprehensive scaffold for thinking about and addressing issues of schooling, diversity, and social justice. Through practical examples from the case study research, the book illustrates the complexities and possibilities associated with schools providing inclusive environments where marginalized voices are heard, political justice where marginalized culture is recognized and valued, cultural justice, and where marginalized students are supported to achieve academically towards accessing the material benefits of society and economic justice.

Supporting and Educating Young Muslim Women Amanda Keddie, 2017-05-25 This book draws on the stories of female educators and young Muslim women to explore issues of identity, justice, and education. Situated against a backdrop of unprecedented Islamophobia and new articulations of White lash, this book draws on case study research conducted over a ten-year period and provides insight into the diverse worlds of young Muslim women from education and community contexts in Australia and England. Keddie discusses the ways in which these young women find spaces of agency and empowerment within these contexts and how their passionate and committed educators support them in this endeavour. Useful for researchers and educators who are concerned about Islamophobia and its devastating impacts on Muslim women and girls, this book positions responsibility for changing the oppressions of Islamophobia and gendered Islamophobia with all of us. Such change begins with education. The stories in this book hope to contribute to the change process.

Department of Railways, 1923 Report on the Working of Government Railways and Tramways for the Year Ended ... Western Australia. Railways Dept, 1922 Myths and Memories Cindy Lane, 2015-02-27 This book examines the perceptions of European travelling writers about southern Western Australia between 1850 and 1914. There was a narrow vision of space and people in the region shaped by their individual personalities, their position in society and the prevailing discourses and ideologies of the age. Christian Enlightenment and Romantic philosophies had a major influence on their responses to the land, its cultivation and conservation and its aesthetic qualities and on their views of both indigenous and settler colonial society, their class and assumptions of race and ethnicity. The travelling men and women perpetuated an idealised view of a colonised landscape and a pioneer community that eliminated class struggle and inequality even though an analysis of their observations suggests otherwise. Nevertheless, although limited, their narratives are invaluable as a reflection of opinions, attitudes and knowledge prevalent during an age of imperialism. Their perspectives reveal unique viewpoints that differ from those of immigrants who wrote about their hopes and fears in making a new life for themselves. These travellers were economically secure, literate and educated foundations which provide an insight into the way power and privilege implicit in their writings governed the way they imagined Western Australia in the colonial and immediate post federation period. The tinted lenses through which European travelling writers narrowly observed space and people presented a mythical, imagined sense of southern Western Australia.
