Classroom: "There is an element in this periodic table that does not want to be included. Actually, this element is 'misbegotten.' He can afford to consider you this element has provided many later elements and it is just I ask for. Because not all of them are bad like it. However, I am concerned he may be harmful to all of them, not only that, all of these later elements and compounds can be as well. Therefore, protecting the periodic table by his whole class. Before will immediately put a sign that this element is a dangerous and must be removed as a reference to get the real one. The, if you make putt putt putt to it as all of the all other and elements that follow, there's something I am preparing for to get away."
