

Transcript of a Speech from the Closing Ceremony of the XV International AIDS Conference (AIDS 2004)

By Nelson Mandela
From Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation

July 16, 2004

Thank you again for asking me to participate in the closing ceremony of your International AIDS Conference. It seems that I have reached a level of seniority, which entitles me to participate in closing ceremonies. Despite the fact that I am an old age pensioner with no power and with even less influence, as you will know I have announced my retirement from public life, which means that I should not be here today. However, the fight against AIDS is one of the greatest challenges the world faces at the start of the 21st century. I cannot rest until I'm certain that the global response is sufficient to turn the tide of the epidemic. The importance of tackling this issue should not be undermined by the many other problems that confront a global society today. In the course of human history there has never been a greater threat than the HIV/AIDS epidemic. Our attention to this issue cannot be distracted or diverted by problems that are apparently more pressing. History will surely judge us harshly if we do not respond with all the energy and resources that we can bring to bear in the fight against HIV/AIDS. Last night we introduced you to our 46664 sexual campaign. We reminded you how they are [Inaudible] to reduce us to prison numbers and so reduce our humanity. We were kept alive by our strong sense of hope and the firm knowledge that the world would not forget us.

Kirk A. Hawkins, Ryan E. Carlin, Levente Littvay, Cristóbal Rovira Kaltwasser, 2018-10-11 Populism is on the rise in Europe and the Americas Scholars increasingly understand populist forces in terms of their ideas or discourse one that envisions a cosmic struggle between the will of the common people and a conspiring elite In this volume we advance populism scholarship by proposing a causal theory and methodological guidelines a research program based on this ideational approach This program argues that populism exists as a set of widespread attitudes among ordinary citizens and that these attitudes lie dormant until activated by weak democratic governance and policy failure It offers methodological guidelines for scholars seeking to measure populist ideas and test their effects And to ground the program empirically it tests this theory at multiple levels of analysis using original data on populist discourse across European and US party systems case studies of populist forces in Europe Latin America and the US survey data from Europe and Latin America and experiments in Chile the US and the UK The result is a truly systematic comparative approach that helps answer questions about the causes and effects of populism
