Multiple Choice Practice #11
Composition Questions

The following passage is a partial student response.

A Case for the Four-Day School Week

(1) The design of modern American education is based on an industrial-era model of mass reproduction. Times have changed. The most obvious: Public schools in the United States should switch to a four-day week.

(2) It makes fiscal sense to scale back our school schedule. The prospect of running a school on staggered single days, every single elementary school year between five and four days a week, is a possibility at school. Just as a school of 200 students could be run on a four-day week, a school of 1,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 2,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 3,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 4,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 5,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 6,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 7,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 8,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 9,000 could be run on a four-day week. A school of 10,000 could be run on a four-day week.

7. In the fourth paragraph, the student attempts to provide evidence to support the claim that public schools should switch to a four-day week.
