Pugh, Peggy McCardle, Annie Stutzman, 2018-02-26 The health development and learning of many young children living in disadvantage areas are at serious risk Access to education has improved under the United Nations Millennium Development Goals and there are now programs in low and middle income countries that are aimed at improving instruction and learning The research and evaluation on the effectiveness of such programs show there are significant challenges but also some successes This issue features presentations of leading international scientists representatives from key governmental and non governmental organizations and others working with programs in the developing world and disadvantaged populations The presentations describe the goals existing challenges and potential approaches to providing evidence based programs to young children in rural remote and poverty stricken areas Topics covered include the state of early childhood in low and middle income nations programs that have shown some success and innovative research approaches that have been often considered unfeasible in these contexts This is the 158th volume in this Jossey Bass series New Directions for Child and Adolescent Development Its mission is to provide scientific and scholarly presentations on cutting edge issues and concepts in this subject area Each volume focuses on a specific new direction or research topic and is edited by experts from that field

Girls Have Academic Advantages and So Do Boys Jodie Fonseca, Laiba Bahrawar, Margaret M. Dubeck, Yasmin Sitabkhan, Christopher Cummiskey, Devanshi Unadkat, 2023-05-15 This paper contains a new analysis of gender differences in early grade reading and mathematics outcomes in 19 USAID funded studies over the past decade from 14 locations in Africa Asia Latin America and the Middle East The paper addresses gaps in the literature related to learning patterns for girls and boys in lower and middle income countries and in early primary school We analyzed the results from reading and mathematics assessments in grades 2 and 3 including differences in oral reading fluency ORF and quantitative comparison scores between boys and girls as well as differences in score distributions by gender In line with results from assessments in upper grades and in wealthier countries we found that girls consistently outperformed boys in reading In mathematics boys slightly outperformed girls although the differences were typically not large Global experience has shown that patterns in poor performance become more entrenched the further learners progress through the grades suggesting that early interventions for boys in reading and girls in mathematics could have long term benefits At the same time both girls and boys typically score below expectations in the two subjects across countries necessitating targeted strategies to improve outcomes for both genders early in their educational trajectories Architecture Schools in North America ,1976 Substance

Misuse Prevention Program Attendance Marni L. Kan, Hsiu Chen Yeh, Lisa M. Schainker, Jessica Nelson, Samantha Charm, Cleve Redmond, Richard Spoth, 2022-12-19 Typical life circumstances for military families may impact their participation in prevention programs yet little is known about what factors influence their participation. The current study examined predictors of attendance in the Strengthening Families Program For Parents and Youth 10-14 for Military Families, a universal in-person program designed to improve family functioning and reduce youth substance misuse and other problem behaviors. Participants included 159 parent-child dyads randomly selected to be offered the 7-week family program. Analyses examined demographic characteristics, deployment experiences, time spent waiting for the program to begin, and psychosocial functioning as predictors of attendance in a series of regression models. Of the 39 percent of families that attended any program sessions, the majority (71 percent) attended at least four of the seven sessions. Attendance varied significantly across the geographic areas in which groups were held. Prior service utilization, youth conduct problem behavior, parental history of deployment, and family conflict were each positively associated with attendance, whereas parent tobacco use was negatively associated with attendance. These results highlight the challenges in recruiting military families into in-person prevention programs and suggest that extra efforts may be needed to engage families that do not perceive that they have a need for support.

Progress toward a Literate World Amber Gove, April Mora, Peggy McCardle, 2017-03-20 In order to work toward eradicating extreme poverty and hunger, the United Nations Millennium Development Goals significantly include universal primary education, gender equality, and empowering women. Effective early literacy instruction plays a critical role in achieving these goals. From around the globe, this issue presents evidence-based, culturally sensitive, and cost-effective practices in reading instruction and intervention in the early grades. Not only will this issue heighten awareness of the challenges faced, but it will provide valuable information to help guide and improve diverse global education programs and research, especially in developing regions and for children living in poverty or disadvantage in all nations. Presenting several experiences from small and large-scale reading improvement programs, it focuses on low and middle-income countries. Describes challenges in implementing, studying, and scaling them up. Informs expectations on how quickly and easily reading performance can change and provides results and evidence of effectiveness. This is the 155th volume in this Jossey-Bass series, New Directions for Child and Adolescent Development. Its mission is to provide scientific and scholarly presentations on cutting-edge issues and concepts in this subject area. Each volume focuses on a specific new direction or research topic and is edited by experts from that field.
