The study guide should be used to supplement your understanding of the material.

Answer the following questions:

- 1.1 Describe the hydrologic cycle, components, and processes. The hydrologic cycle is a continuous cycle of water on Earth. It involves the movement of water between the atmosphere, land, and oceans. The cycle is driven by the sun's energy, which causes water to evaporate from the surface of the ocean and land. The water vapor then condenses into clouds, which release precipitation in the form of rain or snow. The precipitation then flows over the land or into the oceans, where it eventually returns to the atmosphere through evaporation.
- 1.2 Define erosion, and the following erosion parts: runoff, channels, meanders, oxbow lakes, and floodplains. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. Runoff is the water that flows over the land surface. Channels are the paths that water takes as it flows. Meanders are the curved paths that water takes as it flows. Oxbow lakes are bodies of water that are formed when a meander in a river is cut off. Floodplains are the areas of land that are flooded by a river when it overflows its banks.
- 1.3 Define drainage basin and divide. A drainage basin is the area of land that drains into a single body of water. A divide is the line that separates two drainage basins.
- 1.4 Define drainage patterns, dendritic, and trellis. Dendritic drainage patterns are characterized by a central channel with smaller channels branching off it. Trellis drainage patterns are characterized by a central channel with smaller channels branching off it at right angles.
- 1.5 Describe how erosion, transportation, and deposition are affected by grain size and velocity. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. Transportation is the process of moving material from one place to another. Deposition is the process of dropping material in a new location. Grain size and velocity are factors that affect erosion, transportation, and deposition.
- 1.6 Define alluvium. Alluvium is the material that is deposited by a river. It is typically composed of sand, silt, and clay.
- 1.7 Describe the processes of sedimentation, compaction, and lithification. Sedimentation is the process of settling of particles. Compaction is the process of squeezing out water from sediment. Lithification is the process of turning sediment into rock.
- 1.8 Define the different types of sedimentary rocks: clastic, organic, and chemical. Clastic sedimentary rocks are formed from fragments of other rocks. Organic sedimentary rocks are formed from the remains of plants and animals. Chemical sedimentary rocks are formed from the precipitation of minerals from a solution.
