Cookery Donovan Conley, Justin Eckstein, 2020-04-21 The rhetoric of contemporary food production and consumption with a focus on social boundaries. The rhetoric of food is more than just words about food and food is more than just edible matter. Cookery: Food Rhetorics and Social Production explores how food mediates both rhetorical influence and material life through the overlapping concepts of invention and production. The classical canon of rhetorical invention entails the process of discovering one's persuasive appeals, whereas the contemporary landscape of agricultural production touches virtually everyone on the planet. Together, rhetoric and food shape the boundaries of shared living. The essays in this volume probe the many ways that food informs contemporary social life through its mediation of bodies human and extra-human alike in the forms of intoxication, addiction, estrangement, identification, repulsion and eroticism. Our bodies in turn shape the boundaries of food through research, technology, cultural trends and of course by talking about it. Each chapter explores food's persuasive nature through a unique prism that includes intoxication, dirt, food porn, strange foods and political invisibility. Each case offers new insights about the relations between rhetorical influence and embodied practice through food. As a whole, Cookery articulates new ways of viewing food's powers of persuasion as well as the inherent role of persuasion in agricultural production. The purpose of Cookery then is to demonstrate the deep rhetoricity of our modern industrial food system through critical examinations of concepts, practices and tendencies endemic to this system. Food has become an essential topic for discussions concerned with the larger social dynamics of production, distribution, access, reception, consumption, influence and the fraught question of choice. These questions about food and rhetoric are equally questions about the assumptions, values and practices of contemporary public life.
