

Mentor's role Essay Example

The aim of this assignment is to critically analyse the learning environment and to discuss the mentor's role in supporting learners during their clinical placement, acknowledging mentors' accountability throughout the whole process. Mentorship is a very complex, integral role which has been described by Kinnell and Hughes (2010) as a process of transferring knowledge, skills and attitudes from mentors to students, facilitating learning in order to ensure their fitness for practice.

Clutterbuck (2006) considered mentor's role as a learning provider and role model, as well as a challenging, critical friend, from network building and resourcefulness to listening and helping students to find out what they want to achieve. In 2008, The Nursing and Midwifery Council published Standards to support learning and assessment in practice.

The document highlights the importance of sharing knowledge and expertise with others, identifying the key responsibilities of a mentor: establishing effective working relationships, assessment and accountability, leadership, creating an appropriate learning environment in the context of evidence based practice, facilitate learning and evaluating it. Successful learning is associated with creating a positive and supportive learning environment and is regarded as essential in transferring learning for students (Henderson et al, 2006).

Mentors should ensure that learning environments are learner centred. Ali and Panther (2008) noted that, the clinical learning experience is an integral and invaluable resource in developing nursing students and the quality of the clinical placements has a fundamental influence upon the learning process. The level of support and guidance that students receive from suitably qualified practitioners, able to assess their competence, is the key to successful practice learning.

Price (2004) suggests that the learning environment needs to be continually monitored by clinical staff and audited in order to maintain quality and to provide appropriate support for learners. An effective placement for students is perceived according to their own personal goals and aspirations. The context of practice for this review is a Respiratory Centre, which is very well resourced clinical area with highly experienced members of staff who deliver care for patients with acute or chronic respiratory conditions. The Centre encompasses the Outpatients Department, Procedures suite, Physiology Department and a Day Ward.

The staff have specialised knowledge and skills, being able to perform a variety of investigative procedures and a multitude of therapies guided by the National Services Framework for Respiratory Health and Wellbeing (2009). The Matrons and Senior Sisters display very good leadership skills (Copee 2008), creating and preserving a learning environment, motivating and encouraging the members of staff to reach their full potential by ensuring various continuing prof

Whether you are seeking a deeper connection with God, struggling with life's challenges, or yearning for spiritual growth, MentoSpirit offers profound insights that will equip and empower you to trust in the Holy Spirit's direction. This book is an invitation to step into a life of divine mentorship where peace, wisdom, and grace become your daily companions.

Research Ethics Gary Comstock, 2013-01-03 Education in the responsible conduct of research typically takes the form of online instructions about rules, regulations, and policies. Research Ethics takes a novel approach and emphasizes the art of philosophical decision-making. Part A introduces egoism and explains that it is in the individual's own interest to avoid misconduct, fabrication of data, plagiarism, and bias. Part B explains contractualism and covers issues of authorship, peer review, and responsible use of statistics. Part C introduces moral rights as the basis of informed consent, the use of humans in research, mentoring, intellectual property, and conflicts of interests. Part D uses two-level utilitarianism to explore the possibilities and limits of the experimental use of animals, duties to the environment and future generations, and the social responsibilities of researchers. This book brings a fresh perspective to research ethics and will engage the moral imaginations of graduate students in all disciplines.

Critical Expressivism Tara Roeder, Roseanne Gatto, 2015-04-15 Critical Expressivism is an ambitious attempt to reappropriate intellectual territory that has more often been charted by its detractors than by its proponents. Indeed, as Peter Elbow observes in his contribution to this volume, "As far as I can tell, the term expressivist was coined and used only by people who wanted a word for people they disapproved of and wanted to discredit." The editors and contributors to this collection invite readers to join them in a new conversation, one informed by a belief that the term expressivism continues to have a vitally important function in our

Levesque,2011-09-05 The Encyclopedia of Adolescence breaks new ground as an important central resource for the study of adolescence Comprehensive in breath and textbook in depth the Encyclopedia of Adolescence with entries presented in easy to access A to Z format serves as a reference repository of knowledge in the field as well as a frequently updated conduit of new knowledge long before such information trickles down from research to standard textbooks By making full use of Springer's print and online flexibility the Encyclopedia is at the forefront of efforts to advance the field by pushing and creating new boundaries and areas of study that further our understanding of adolescents and their place in society

Substantively the Encyclopedia draws from four major areas of research relating to adolescence. The first broad area includes research relating to Self Identity and Development in Adolescence. This area covers research relating to identity from early adolescence through emerging adulthood, basic aspects of development, e.g., biological, cognitive, social, and foundational developmental theories. In addition, this area focuses on various types of identity: gender, sexual, civic, moral, political, racial, spiritual, religious, and so forth. The second broad area centers on Adolescents' Social and Personal Relationships. This area of research examines the nature and influence of a variety of important relationships, including family, peer, friends, sexual, and romantic, as well as significant nonparental adults. The third area examines Adolescents in Social Institutions. This area of research centers on the influence and nature of important institutions that serve as the socializing contexts for adolescents. These major institutions include schools, religious groups, justice systems, medical fields, cultural contexts, media, legal systems, economic structures, and youth organizations. Adolescent Mental Health constitutes the last major area of research. This broad area of research focuses on the wide variety of human thoughts, actions, and behaviors relating to mental health, from psychopathology to thriving. Major topic examples include deviance, violence, crime, pathology, DSM, normalcy, risk, victimization, disabilities, flow, and positive youth development.

Beyond the Five-paragraph Essay Kimberly Hill Campbell, Kristi Latimer, 2012. Love it or hate it, the five paragraph essay is perhaps the most frequently taught form of writing in classrooms of yesterday and today. But have you ever actually seen five paragraph essays outside of school walls? Have you ever found it in business writing, journalism, nonfiction, or any other genres that exist in the real world? Kimberly Hill Campbell and Kristi Latimer reviewed the research on the effectiveness of the form as a teaching tool and discovered that the research does not support the five paragraph formula. In fact, research shows that the formula restricts creativity, emphasizes structure rather than content, does not improve standardized test scores, inadequately prepares students for college writing, and results in vapid writing. In Beyond the Five Paragraph Essay, Kimberly and Kristi show you how to reclaim the literary essay and create a program that encourages thoughtful writing in response to literature. They provide numerous strategies that stimulate student thinking, value unique insight, and encourage lively personal writing, including the following: Close reading, which is the basis for writing about literature; Low stakes writing options that support students thinking as they read; Collaboration in support of discussion, debate, and organizational structures that support writing as exploration; A focus on students writing process as foundational to content development and structure; The use of model texts to write in the form of the literature students are reading and analyzing. The goal of reading and writing about literature is to push and challenge our students thinking. We want students to know that their writing can convey something important, a unique view to share, defend, prove, delight, discover, and inspire. If we want our students to be more engaged, skilled writers, we need to move beyond the five paragraph essay.
