In Effective Teacher Interviews, Jennifer L. Hindman provides practical advice on how to conduct hiring interviews that reliably predict a teacher's success, including guidance on applying research to the interview process, developing meaningful legal interview questions, assembling and training an interview team, matching candidates' skills to your school's needs, and using the best interview strategies. With these tips on refocusing the interview process, you'll be better prepared to select and hire the teachers who will make a positive difference for your students and your school. Student and Teacher Writing

Motivational Beliefs Steve Graham, Gary A. Troia, Gustaf Bernhard Uno Skar, 2024-06-21 The study of students' motivational beliefs about writing and how such beliefs influence writing has increased since the publication of John Hays' 1996 model of writing. This model emphasized that writers' motivational beliefs influence how and what they write. Likewise, increased attention has been devoted in recent years to how teachers' motivational beliefs about writing, especially their efficacy to teach writing, impact how writing is taught and how students progress as writers. As a result, there is a need to bring together in a Research Topic studies that examine the role and influence of writing beliefs. Historically, the psychological study of writing has focused on what students write or the processes they apply when writing. Equally important but investigated less often are studies examining how writing is taught and how teachers' efforts contribute to students' writing. What has been less prominent in the psychological study of writing are the underlying motivational beliefs that drive or inhibit students' writing or serve as catalysts for teachers' actions in the classroom when teaching writing. This Research Topic will bring together studies that examine both students' and teachers' motivational beliefs about teaching writing. This will include studies examining the operation of such beliefs, how they develop, cognitive and affective correlates, how writing motivational beliefs can be fostered, and how they are related to students' writing achievement. By focusing on both students' and teachers' beliefs, the Research Topic will provide a more nuanced and broader picture of the role of motivation beliefs in writing and writing instruction. This Research Topic includes papers that address students' motivational beliefs about writing, teachers' motivational beliefs about writing or teaching writing. Students' motivational beliefs about writing include beliefs about the value and utility of writing, writing competence, attitudes toward writing, goal orientation, motives for writing, identity, epistemological underpinnings writing and attributions for success failure as examples Teacher motivational include these same judgements as well as beliefs about their preparation and their students competence and progress as writers to provide additional examples This Research Topic is interested in papers that examine how such beliefs operate develop are related to other cognitive and affective variables how they are impacted by instruction and how they are related to students writing performance Submitted studies can include original research both quantitative qualitative or mixed methods meta analysis and reviews of the literature different countries have implemented English education in their own ways with different pedagogical goals motivations features and pedagogies While much of the research cited in English language planning policy has focused on macro level language policy and planning there is an increasing interest in micro planning in particular teacher agency in policy response Individual teacher agency is a multifaceted amalgam not only of teachers individual histories professional training personal values and instructional beliefs but also of how these interact with local interpretations and appropriations of policy Teacher Agency and Policy Response in English Language Teaching examines the agency of the teacher in negotiating educational reforms and policy changes at the local and national levels Chapters in the book include English language teaching in China teacher agency in response to curricular innovations Incorporating academic skills into EFL curriculum teacher agency in response to global mobility challenge Teacher agency the native nonnative dichotomy and English Classes in English in Japanese high Schools Teacher designed high stakes English language testing washback and impact This book will appeal to researcher across all sectors of education in particular key stakeholders in curriculum and language planning Those interested in the latest development of English language teaching will also find this book a valuable resource Equity Visits Rachel Roegman,David Allen,Larry Leverett,Scott Thompson,Thomas Hatch,2019-08-07 Because equity and instruction are inextricably bound Why are equity visits such a critical first step to increasing opportunity and access for our under served students Because they take instructional rounds to a new level providing a powerful lens for investigating the intersections of equity and instruction After all how can we possibly deliver equitable learning experiences opportunities and outcomes for our students without first pinpointing problems of practice That s where Equity Visits will prove absolutely indispensable to district and school administrators It details how to combine a strong focus on instruction with explicit intentional efforts to address systemic inequities Inside you ll find A range of data collection activities and tools to target central issues of equity in your school Clear guidelines on how to investigate the ways instructional practices structures and beliefs lead to inequitable educational experiences and how these are often masked in the day to day life of schools and districts A frank discussion of how to make race and racism an explicit part of investigating and addressing educational inequities Voices of school and district leaders who have taken crucial first steps to become equity warriors Recommendations on how to develop policies initiatives and practices to confront those inequities Few dispute that instructional improvement must be a central focus of educational leadership but for too long achieving educational equity has been absent from the conversation Here is your opportunity to ensure equity occupy a central spot in data collection and analysis and be explicitly discussed at all levels of your school or district organization In short essential reading and doing for all administrators Common Planning Time in Middle Level Schools Steven B. Mertens,Vincent A. Anfara,Micki M. Caskey,Nancy Flowers,2013-03-01 This volume the ninth volume in the Handbook of Research in Middle Level Education is a compilation of research studies focusing on the use and implementation of common planning time CPT in middle level schools All of the studies were part of the Middle Level Education Research SIG's National Middle Grades Research Project NMGRP on Common Planning Time which provides additional evidence about teachers' understandings, experiences, the benefits and barriers about CPT. Since all researchers participating in the SIG sponsored project utilized the same data collection protocols and followed the same protocols, the overall data collection was systematic and is highly reliable. Five research questions were generated to guide the development of the data collection protocols. While the authors were encouraged to use their data to address these project level questions, they were not required to do so. The project consisted of both qualitative and quantitative data collection. Phase I qualitative consisted of observations of CPT meetings and structured interviews with teachers. Phase II quantitative was comprised of an online teacher survey. Within the chapters of this volume, a variety of relevant and meaningful research questions are examined utilizing both qualitative and quantitative methodologies.

Effective Universal Instruction Kimberly Gibbons, Sarah Brown, Bradley C. Niebling, 2018-11-30 This accessible volume helps school leadership teams accomplish the crucial yet often overlooked task of improving universal instruction. Tier 1 within a multi-tiered system of support (MTSS). Strong universal instruction reduces the numbers of PreK-12 students who may need additional services and supports. Providing clear action steps and encouraging guidance, the expert authors present a roadmap for evaluating the effectiveness of Tier 1, identifying barriers to successful implementation and making and sustaining instructional improvements. In a large size format for easy photocopying, the book includes 27 reproducible checklists, worksheets, and forms. Purchasers get access to a Web page where they can download and print the reproducible materials. This book is in The Guilford Practical Intervention in the Schools Series, edited by Sandra M. Chafouleas.

Does the Village Still Raise the Child? Beth Blue Swadener, 2000-09-22 Examining the degree to which Kenyan children are still communally raised, this book presents findings from a national collaborative study considering the impacts of rapid social, economic, and cultural change on child rearing and early education in Kenya. The narratives of over 460 parents, grandparents, preschool teachers, children, and community leaders provide unique insights on the impacts of neo-colonial policies, development practices, and national austerity measures on everyday lives of families. A unique aspect of this book is that it decolonizes research through sustained collaboration on all aspects of the study, from design and interview protocol development to data collection and analysis through dissemination. This book becomes then an invaluable model for how to do thoughtful collaborative comparative research.
