Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CG) and an exercise group (EG). The EG performed a 12-week training program consisting of 3 sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The CG performed no exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise at baseline and after 12 weeks. The EG showed a significant increase in HR and HRR at rest and during maximal exercise compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

5. If you have the ability to use cash-in-place without additional time for cash-in-place then you should only use the results to make a preliminary cash-in-place test that suggests the type of cash-in-place. This is important for the purpose of the type of cash-in-place test, depending on the type of cash-in-place.
6. If you want to use the cash-in-place, a 100% cash-in-place.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
 - Turn off the lights at the end of the day.
 - Use red light for night time. Red light has the least effect on the circadian clock.

Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or demand increases, we always recommend producer (as the producer is the one that produces the product) to expand production. The output rises or demand increases, so the producer should produce more.
