Making History New Seamus O'Malley, 2014-10-24 Guided by Ezra Pound's dictum Make it new a generation of writers set out to create fiction and poetry that was unlike anything that came before it However as Seamus O'Malley shows historical narrative was a key site for modernist experimentation Taking three of literary modernism's major figures Joseph Conrad Ford Madox Ford and Rebecca West Making History New demonstrates how the movement's literature not only engaged with history but also transformed traditional approaches to its telling in unique ways Informed by Paul Ricoeur's belief that narrative is necessary to comprehend historical processes the study closely examines four major modernist historical novels Conrad's Nostromo interrogates the very term history as it relates the political tumult of a fictitious Latin American country while Ford's The Good Soldier mirrors the cyclical nature of historiography with a protagonist who returns repeatedly to intense periods of his own past to better comprehend them Two epochal World War I novels The Return of the

Soldier and Parade's End depict shell shocked veterans that illustrate the paradox of an accurate historical rendering achieved through the process of amnesia These novels in O Malley's view lead to the high point of what he terms modernist historiography Rebecca West's innovative 1941 travelogue Black Lamb and Grey Falcon and its preoccupation with history's impossibility The monograph concludes with a brief consideration of how historians since World War II have adopted some of the approaches to narrative inaugurated by literary modernists while wrestling with how to relate unthinkable atrocities such as genocide Ultimately Making History New foregrounds narrative's essential role as a bridge between fiction and history as it explores the process by which collective human experience becomes historical narrative

Once and Future Partners William C. Potter, Sarah Bidgood, 2018-10-09 Despite their Cold War rivalry the United States and the Soviet Union frequently engaged in joint efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons Leaders in Washington and Moscow recognized that nuclear proliferation would serve neither country's interests even when they did not see eye to eye in many other areas They likewise understood why collaboration in mitigating this nuclear danger would serve both their own interests and those of the international community This volume examines seven little known examples of US Soviet cooperation for non proliferation including preventing South Africa from conducting a nuclear test developing international safeguards and export control guidelines and negotiating a draft convention banning radiological weapons It uses declassified and recently digitized archival material to explore in depth the motivations for and modalities for cooperation under often adverse political circumstances Given the current disintegration of Russian and US relations including in the nuclear sphere this history is especially worthy of review Accordingly the volume's final chapter is devoted to discussing how non proliferation lessons from the past can be applied today in areas most in need of US Russian cooperation

An Afghan Prince in Victorian England Robert D.

McChesney, 2024-07-25 In 1894 Great Britain invited Abd al Rahman Khan the amir of Afghanistan to England for a state visit. Then at the height of its imperial might Britain sought to strengthen ties with the strategically important Afghanistan which shared a long frontier not yet a border with British India. The amir's aim for the visit was to secure permission for an Afghan legation embassy in London while the British unaware of this goal hoped to overawe the amir with displays of military and industrial might as well as performances to show the strength and unity of British civil society. The amir citing illness ultimately declined the invitation but in a calculated snub sent his second son Prince Nasr Allah Khan in his place. This book narrates the events of the prince's mission in a number of revealing ways. Using both British and Afghan sources including the journal of a senior member of the Afghan contingent McChesney places the visit in its international and historical context and analyzes the internal dynamics of the prince's delegation the seventy members of whom represented Afghanistan but included two Englishmen and two English women. A further twenty members representing the Government of British India were as multi ethnic and multilingual as the members of the Afghan delegation. This bilateral and complex mission left India in April 1895 and remained together for the next six months. From the beginning it was riven by incidents of misogyny racism and class conflict that affected its ability to perform its diplomatic functions. The reader gains insights into the goals and tactics of two asymmetrical yet competing powers as well as a rare look at the human element in this cross cultural diplomatic encounter.
