solutions to inequality of recent times From large nations bullying smaller nations into giving up eco friendly fishing policies to the profiteering by the Crown Estate in commandeering much of the British seabed the scale of the global problem is synthesised here for the first time as well as a toolkit for all of us to rise up and tackle it The oceans have been left out of calls for a Green New Deal but must be at the centre of the fight against climate change How do we do it By building a Blue Commons alternative a transformative worldview and new set of proposals that prioritise the historic rights of local communities the wellbeing of all people and with it the health of our oceans

Handbook Of Disaster Risk Reduction & Management: Climate Change And Natural Disasters Christian N Madu,2017-07-25 Climate change is increasingly of great concern to the world community The earth has witnessed the buildup of greenhouse gases GHG in the atmosphere changes in biodiversity and more occurrences of natural disasters Recently scientists have begun to shift their emphasis away from curbing carbon dioxide emission to adapting to carbon dioxide emission The increase in natural disasters around the world is unprecedented in earth s history and these disasters are often associated to climate changes Many nations along the coastal lines are threatened by massive floods and tsunamis Earthquakes are increasing in intensity and erosion and droughts are problems in many parts of the developing countries This book is therefore to investigate ways to prepare and effectively manage these disasters and possibly reduce their impacts The focus is on mitigation strategies and policies that will help to reduce the impacts of natural disasters The book takes an in depth look at climate change and its association to socio economic development and cultures especially in vulnerable communities and investigates how communities can develop resilience to disasters A balanced and a multiple perspective approach to manage the risks associated with natural disasters is offered by engaging authors from the entire globe to proffer solutions

Political and Legal Perspectives of the EU Eastern Partnership Policy Tanel Kerikmäe,Archil Chocia,2016-01-23 This book examines EU Eastern Partnership taking into account geopolitical challenges of EU integration It highlights reasons for limited success such as systematic conflict of EU External Action In addition the book analyses country specific issues and discusses EaP influence on them investigating political economic and social factors while seeking for potential solutions to existing problems The reluctance of the Eastern countries to the European reforms should not reduce political pro activeness of the EU The authors suggest that EaP strategies should be reviewed to be more reciprocal and not based solely on the EU laden agenda This book is one of the good examples of cooperation between scholars not only from EaP and EU countries but also from different disciplines bringing diversity to the discussion process

Community-based adaptation Hannah Reid,2017-10-02 Community based adaptation CBA to climate change is based on local priorities needs knowledge and capacities Early CBA initiatives were generally implemented by non government organisations NGOs and operated primarily at the local level Many used bottom up participatory processes to identify the climate change problem and appropriate responses Small localised stand alone initiatives are insufficient to address the scale of challenges climate change will bring however The causes of vulnerability such as market or service access or good governance also often operate beyond the project level. Larger organisations and national governments have therefore started to implement broader CBA programmes which provide opportunities to scale up responses and integrate CBA into higher levels of policy and planning. This book shows that it is possible for CBA to remain centred on local priorities but not necessarily limited to work implemented at the local level. Some chapters address the issue of mainstreaming CBA into government policy and planning processes or into city or sectoral level plans e.g. on agriculture. Others look at how gender and children's issues should be mainstreamed into adaptation planning itself and others describe how tools can be applied and finance delivered for effective mainstreaming. This book was published as a special issue of Climate and Development.

Adaptive Water Management Farideh Delavari Edalat, M. Reza Abdi, 2017-09-05. This book explores a new framework of Adaptive Water Management (AWM) for evaluating existing approaches in urban water management. It highlights the need to adopt multidisciplinary strategies in water management while providing an in-depth understanding of institutional interactions amongst different water-related sectors. The key characteristics of AWM i.e. polycentric governance, organisational flexibility and public participation are investigated and described through a critical review of the relevant literature. The book presents an empirical case study undertaken in a selected developing country city to investigate the potential gaps between the current water management approaches and possible implementation of AWM. Feasibility of AWM operations is examined in an environment surrounded by established water management structure with centralised governance and an institutional process based on technical flexibility. The key elements of AWM performance are re-structured and transformed into decision support systems. Multi-criteria decision models are developed to facilitate quantification and visualization of the elements derived from the case study which is involved with water companies and water consumers. The book describes how the concept of AWM along with structuring suitable decision support systems can be developed and applied to developing country cities. The book highlights the barriers for applying the AWM strategies that include established centralised decision making, bureaucratic interactions with external organisations, lack of organisational flexibility within the institutions and lack of recognition of public role in water management. The findings outline that despite the lack of adaptability in the current water management in the case study, as an example of developing countries, there are positive attitudes among water professionals and the public towards adaptability through public institutional participation.

Capturing Change in Science, Technology, and Innovation National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Panel on Developing Science, Technology, and Innovation Indicators for the Future, 2014-08-25. Since the 1950s under congressional mandate the U.S. National Science Foundation (NSF) through its National Center for Science and Engineering Statistics (NCSES) and predecessor agencies has produced regularly updated measures of research and development expenditures, employment and training in science and engineering and other indicators of the state of U S science and technology A more recent focus has been on measuring innovation in the corporate sector NCSES collects its own data on science technology and innovation STI activities and also incorporates data from other agencies to produce indicators that are used for monitoring purposes including comparisons among sectors regions and with other countries and for identifying trends that may require policy attention and generate research needs NCSES also provides extensive tabulations and microdata files for in depth analysis Capturing Change in Science Technology and Innovation assesses and provides recommendations regarding the need for revised refocused and newly developed indicators of STI activities that would enable NCSES to respond to changing policy concerns This report also identifies and assesses both existing and potential data resources and tools that NCSES could exploit to further develop its indicators program Finally the report considers strategic pathways for NCSES to move forward with an improved STI indicators program The recommendations offered in Capturing Change in Science Technology and Innovation are intended to serve as the basis for a strategic program of work that will enhance NCSES s ability to produce indicators that capture change in science technology and innovation to inform policy and optimally meet the needs of its user community

The Politics of Relations André Thiemann, 2024-06-01 Rethinking the contributions of the Manchester School of Social Anthropology for political ethnography the Politics of Relations elaborates its relational approach to the state along four interlaced axes of research embeddedness boundary work modalities and strategic selectivity that enable thick comparisons across spatio temporal scales of power In Serbia local experiences of self government infrastructure and care motivate its citizens to become the state while cursing it heartily While both officials and citizens strive for a state that enables a normal life they navigate the increasingly illiberal politics enacted by national parties and which are tolerated by trans national donors
