Assessment of Authentic Performance in School Mathematics Richard A. Lesh,Susan J. Lamon,2013-04-03 This book is the result of a conference sponsored by the Educational Testing Service and the University of Wisconsin s National Center for Research in Mathematical Sciences Education The purpose of the conference was to facilitate the work of a group of scholars whose interests included the assessment of higher order understandings and processes in foundation level pre high school mathematics Discussions focused on such issues as the purposes of assessment guidelines for producing and scoring real life assessment activities and the meanings of such terms as deeper and higher order understanding cognitive objectives and authentic mathematical activities Assessment was viewed as a critical component of complex dynamic and continually adapting educational systems During the time that the chapters in this book were being written sweeping changes in mathematics education were being initiated in response to powerful recent advances in technology cognitive psychology and mathematics as well as to numerous public demands for educational reform These changes have already resulted in significant reappraisals of what it means to understand mathematics of the nature of mathematics teaching and learning and of the real life situations in which mathematics is useful The challenge was to pursue assessment related initiatives that are systematically valid in the sense that they work to complement and enhance other improvements in the educational system rather than act as an impediment to badly needed curriculum reforms To address these issues most chapters in this book focus on clarifying and articulating the goals of assessment and instruction and they stress the content of assessment above its mode of delivery Computer or portfolio based assessments are interpreted as means to ends not as ends in themselves Assessment is conceived as an ongoing documentation process seamless with instruction whose quality hinges upon its ability to provide complete and appropriate information as needed to inform priorities in instructional decision making This book tackles some of the most complicated issues related to assessment and it offers fresh perspectives from leaders in the field with the hope that the ultimate consumer in the instruction assessment enterprise the individual student will reclaim his or her potential for self directed mathematics learning Handbook for Teaching Introductory Psychology Michelle Rae Hebl, Charles L. Brewer, Ludy T. Benjamin, Jr., 2001-08-01 Like its predecessors Volume III of the Handbook for Teaching Introductory Psychology provides introductory psychology instructors with teaching ideas and activities that can immediately be put into practice in the classroom It contains an organized collection of articles from Teaching of Psychology TOP the official journal of the Society for the Teaching of Psychology Division 2 of the American Psychological Association Volume III contains 89 articles from TOP that have not been included in other volumes Another distinction between this volume and its predecessors is its emphasis on testing and assessment The book is divided into two sections Section One Issues and Approaches in Teaching Introductory Psychology contains 52 articles on critical issues such as how to approach the course understanding students interests perceptions and motives students existing knowledge of psychology including their misconceptions a comparison of introductory textbooks and tips on how to evaluate them test questions and student factors affecting exam performance an overview of different forms of feedback giving extra credit and how to deal with academic dishonesty Section Two consists of 37 articles that present demonstrations class and laboratory projects and other techniques to enhance teaching and learning in both the introductory as well as advanced courses in the discipline This section is organized so as to parallel the order of topics found in most introductory psychology textbooks Intended for academicians who teach the introductory psychology course and or oversee grad assistants who teach the course all royalties of the book go directly to the Society for the Teaching of Psychology to promote its activities to further improve the teaching of psychology Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1978 High Schools in Crisis Ellen Hall, Richard Handley, 2004-03-30 This book exposes the degree of rage today s teenagers feel and how our nation s schools are failing them not just academically but in just about every way imaginable Hall and Handley propose practical techniques procedures and core values that can make high school a safe learning environment once again Drawing from their many years of experience administering a high school that provided a safe and fulfilling learning environment they introduce readers to teaching techniques administrative policies and design ideas that encourage students to speak out express their indomitable idealism and feel welcome and accepted The learning process works best when students are supported encouraged and accepted The authors tell the story of a special school Mountain View that upholds a strong belief in the value of each student through smaller classes experiential learning and an awareness of community in and out of school This book describes the journeys of students who were angry unsure or struggling with various labels of learning disabilities as well as students who were successful in the traditional educational system but sought more opportunities for creativity and self expression Their stories are told in the context of how to build and run a school that is keenly attuned to teenagers needs Twenty Questions for Parents help to pinpoint issues and difficulties children may be struggling with Also included is a bibliography of helpful sources and suggested readings In keeping with the efforts of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to support small high schools around the United States this book provides a blueprint for parents school districts and communities
