Science Education in Canada Christine D. Tippet, Todd M. Milford, 2019-07-01 This book offers a meso level description of demographics science education and science teacher education Representing all 13 Canadian jurisdictions the book provides local insights that serve as the basis for exploring the Canadian system as a whole and function as a common starting point from which to identify causal relationships that may be associated with Canada's successes The book highlights commonalities consistencies and distinctions across the provinces and territories in a thematic analysis of the 13 jurisdiction specific chapters Although the analysis indicates a network of policy and practice issues warranting further consideration the diverse nature of Canadian science education makes simple identification of causal relationships elusive Canada has a reputation for strong science achievement However there is currently limited literature on science education in Canada at the general level or in specific areas such as Canadian science curriculum or science teacher education This book fills that gap by presenting a thorough description of science education at the provincial territorial level as well as a more holistic description of pressing issues for Canadian science education

Student Affairs Lesley Andres, Finola Finlay, 2005-05 Who has access to higher education today At what financial and personal cost Based on what conditions and criteria How do students describe and interpret their experiences And how can institutions facilitate and constrain successful participation and completion These research studies extend current understandings of what it is to be a student in higher education by embracing the dynamic relationship between students as agents and institutions as living structures which impact on their lives Focusing on the diverse experiences of today's non traditional and traditional students researchers explore how and why institutional rhetoric of inclusion engagement gender and access may or may not be reflected in the reality of students experiences Student Affairs moves from theory to application by suggesting realistic strategies for addressing the challenges surrounding the interrelation of students and institutions Each essay analyzes issues of access and participation in programs ranging from community college development studies to graduate studies As a whole this collection is a testament to how much institutional change has occurred in the social organization of postsecondary education and how much more change is required to meet the challenge of equitable access and inclusion
