Rudolph, 2019-06-01 A former Wisconsin high school science teacher makes the case that how and why we teach science matters especially now that its legitimacy is under attack Why teach science The answer to that question will determine how it is taught Yet despite the enduring belief in this country that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process Nearly all of the basic knowledge we have about the world is rock solid The science we teach in high schools in particular laws of motion the structure of the atom cell division DNA replication the universal speed limit of light is accepted as the way nature works Everyone also agrees that students and the public more generally should understand the methods used to gain this knowledge But what exactly is the scientific method Ever since the late 1800s scientists and science educators have grappled with that question Through the years they ve advanced an assortment of strategies ranging from the laboratory method to the five step method to science as inquiry to no method at all How We Teach Science reveals that each strategy was influenced by the intellectual cultural and political circumstances of the time In some eras learning about experimentation and scientific inquiry was seen to contribute to an individual s intellectual and moral improvement while in others it was viewed as a way to minimize public interference in institutional science John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and ultimately determine how science is perceived and received by the public Royal Commission on Scientific Instruction and the Advancement of Science Anonymous, 2023-03-13 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 The publishing house Anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints Due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality Our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost First, supplementary, and second reports, with minutes of evidence and appendices. 1872 (c.536) Great Britain. The Science We Have Loved and Taught Constance Putnam,2015-05-01 Dartmouth Medical School DMS the fourth oldest medical school in the United States was founded in 1797 in Hanover New Hampshire by Nathan Smith An entrepreneurial doctor with his own special brand of patient centered medical care Smith saw the fledgling Dartmouth College as a literary institution that would give status to his medical school and enhance his efforts to train physicians to care for rural patients The College and the Medical School have followed intertwined paths ever since as Constance Putnam shows in her account of the School s first two centuries Like all medical schools DMS has had to learn how to get along with its parent institution At Dartmouth this has meant repeatedly sorting out just how independent the Medical Department as it was initially known should be of Dartmouth College itself Yet it is the strong personalities and the unique way Dartmouth responded to changes in fashion for medical education that sets the DMS story apart Putnam brings to life the men who helped make Dartmouth Medical School important in the history of medical education The unique path followed by Dartmouth Medical School in the aftermath of the Flexner Report is also thoroughly explored The book concludes with an assessment of DMS at the end of its second century and a look at the way Nathan Smith s early vision had grown to something far greater and more useful to the health of that rural population he sought to serve than even he could have imagined      The Journal [afterw.] The Madras journal of literature and science, ed. by J.C.
